FOREWORD

In a war-torn world, this fiftieth volume of The Illio commemorates the seventy-fifth anniversary of the University of Illinois.

In the pages which follow, the editors have endeavored to focus attention on campus life of the past three-quarter century, to touch upon the more significant points of the University history, to bring the picture up to date with the happenings of 1942-43, in short, to present a small part of the greatness that is the University of Illinois.

FOR SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS...

A red line-art illustration of a building facade. At the top, two flags fly on poles. Below them, a horizontal line runs across the page. On the left, there is a decorative element resembling a curtain or a small balcony. The central part of the illustration features a series of vertical lines representing columns. On the right, there are more columns and a doorway. At the bottom, there are four arched doorways. The text is overlaid on the central part of the illustration.

the University of Illinois has made outstanding contributions to all fields of research, education, and extension. The results of the best in analytical and creative thinking have been passed on to students in the classroom and to citizens of the state, becoming through them a part of the always developing, always maturing society of the nation. The personalities of great University thinkers and teachers have impressed themselves upon the lives of men and women now great in their own right. Many are the one-time tormentors of professors whose names are now bywords in literature, in engineering, in agriculture—in all the arts and sciences. Less famous but equally important are the Illini who are now the well-informed, constructive citizens forming the backbone of the communities of the nation.

...TO ALL THESE

In these seventy-five years of service she has also contributed Fighting Illini to every major conflict which placed at stake the freedom to pursue the American way of life. On home soil and on foreign soil these gallant sons and daughters of Alma Mater have proven themselves as true Illini. In the Spanish-American War, in the Mexican War, in the first World War, and now in World War II, men and women of the University have been among the first to give up home, school, friends, jobs—even their lives for the causes dear to their hearts. Our great Memorial Stadium, originally dedicated to those who died in World War I, now stands as a permanent monument to all Illini of all wars who have made the supreme sacrifice in order that America and American institutions might live and develop.

ADMINISTRATION

In the year of the formal inauguration of the University of Illinois, 1868, a Board of Trustees, consisting of thirty-two members, resolved “to make this University pre-eminently a practical school of agriculture and the mechanic arts, not excluding other scientific and classical studies.”

That board of thirty-two trustees had eighty students to care for during that term. These eighty students were housed in an old seminary building that was a combination dormitory and recitation hall—“A large, plain, red brick, five story building, set down in the black Illinois mud, with not a tree or a shrub, a spear of grass or a fence.”

But like the lush green grass that soon grew in “the black Illinois mud” the University also took root under the careful administration of far-sighted men, and rose to a place of eminence that far exceeded the expectations of the Board that passed that simple resolution back in 1868.

TO THE STUDENTS:

In times of adversity the American people have always demonstrated conclusively their initiative and their ability to rise to the occasion no matter what it may be and no matter what the odds. This traditional capacity for action in an emergency will serve the country in good stead during the course of the terrible conflict now being waged against us by the foes of freedom and Democracy.

It seems to me that one of the greatest contributions of the University of Illinois to the times in which we live is in teaching its students to be self-reliant, resourceful and strong, to think things out clearly and act, under enlightened and progressive leadership, on the dictates of their own best judgment.

During the last seventy-five years the University of Illinois has devoted itself to that objective. And during the years to come — difficult though they may be — difficult though they undoubtedly will be — the University will continue to exemplify the principles of the American way of life — a life of freedom and Democracy under the law. In that way, as much as in any other, can the University as a great educational institution fulfill its obligations to the people of the State and Nation.

ARTHUR CUTTS WILLARD
PRESIDENT, UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS

Arthur Cutts Willard was elected seventh president of the University of Illinois by the Board of Trustees on March 13, 1934, and assumed the presidency in July of that year. He has been a member of the University faculty since 1913, coming here as assistant professor of heating and ventilation in the Department of Mechanical Engineering. Four years later he was made a full professor and in 1920 was named head of the department. Nine months previous to his election as president, he had been made Acting Dean of the College of Engineering.

Dr. Willard was born in Washington, D.C., and attended the Central High School there. He studied in the National College of Pharmacy for one year and then entered the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, taking a chemical engineering course and receiving his Bachelor of Science degree in 1904. Following graduation from M.I.T. he taught for one year at the California School for Mechanical Arts in San Francisco and for three years at George Washington University in the national capital. The four years preceding his transfer to Illinois he served the United States War Department as Sanitary and Heating Engineer.

Three honorary doctors' degrees have been conferred upon President Willard: Doctor of Engineering by the Case School of Applied Science, Doctor of Laws by George Washington University, and also the Doctor of Laws by Northwestern University.

HISTORICALLY SPEAKING

The University of Illinois holds a unique position among the Land Grant Colleges and Universities of the United States; it is the Federal Land Grant-State University in the State where the Land Grant College movement originated; furthermore, President Abraham Lincoln, a resident of the State of Illinois, made the Land Grant Act of 1862 a law.

The first attempt to found a State University in Illinois was defeated in 1833. The first move to found a State Agricultural and Mechanical School was begun at the meeting of the Buel Institute, at Granville, Illinois, on November 18, 1851, when Jonathan Baldwin Turner stated his plans for such a school. In February, 1852, Turner made the suggestion that all states might unite in seeking a "chain of industrial universities, nationwide in compass . . . created and endowed by a grant of land from Congress to each State." The work of Turner and his friends resulted in a Memorial to Congress from the General Assembly of Illinois in February 1853, seeking federal aid for a national system of agricultural universities.

Justin Morrill of Vermont, introduced the preliminary legislation, for such grants, his bill finally being vetoed by President Buchanan, February 26, 1859. The Land Grant Act of 1862, was sponsored by Senator B. F. Wade of Ohio, introduced in the United States Senate in May 1862, passed, and signed by President Lincoln on July 1, 1862. The bill embodied completely the ideas of the farmers of Illinois, and granted to each state public land scrip equal to 30,000 acres for each senator and representative in Congress "for the endowment, support, and maintenance of at least one college whose leading object shall be, without excluding other scientific and classical studies, and including military tactics, to teach such branches of learning as are related to agriculture and the mechanic arts . . . to promote the liberal and practical education of the industrial classes in the several pursuits and professions of life."

The General Assembly of Illinois accepted the grant for the state on February 14, 1863, and the location was designated at Champaign-Urbana on February 28, 1867 after a bitter contest. Governor Oglesby immediately appointed the first board of trustees which chose John M. Gregory as the first regent of the new university, termed the Illinois Industrial University.

Regent Gregory served from 1867 to 1880; the University opened on March 2, 1868 with fifty students, a regent, two faculty members, and one building with almost no equipment. The early years of the new university were highly controversial, due to lack of knowledge of courses to be taught in an industrial university. A shop for the teaching of mechanical engineering, the first in America, was opened in 1870, women were admitted to the University in 1870, a mechanical building and drill hall was built in 1871, the "Student," a newspaper was renamed "The Illini" in 1873, University Hall was completed in 1875, and in 1877 the Legislature gave the University authority to confer degrees and grant diplomas. Four colleges were organized within the University in 1873, Agriculture, Engineering, Literature and Arts, and Natural Science. Regent Gregory accomplished two great objectives, the establishment of the University, and the reversing of an unfriendly attitude to one of firm friendship for the new Industrial University.

Selim H. Peabody, acting regent from 1880 to 1881, and regent from 1881 to 1891 was faced with three serious problems of administration during his term of office, student government, fraternities, and finances. He solved the financial problem by securing the first appropriations from the state in 1881 to assist in the payment of instruction. He sponsored the change in name of the University from the Illinois Industrial University to the University of Illinois in 1885. He moved the State Laboratory of Natural History and the State Entomologist to the University in the same year; he founded the agricultural Experiment Station in 1888. Regent Peabody, an engineer himself, completed the move to make the new University a satisfaction to the state as a technical school.

It remained for Acting Regent Thomas Jonathan Burrill who served in this capacity from 1891 to 1894 to solve the problems of student government and fraternities. During this period, the Graduate School was established in 1892 and the Summer School in 1894. Acting Regent Burrill's brief administration was marked as an era of improvement in internal feeling.

Andrew Sloan Draper, president from 1894 to 1904, was the chief administrator of the University in the period which saw it change from a technical school to a true University. Great changes in internal organization, in business practices and educational plans were adopted, many of which stand to this day. Numerous Colleges and Schools were organized: the School of Law in 1896 (becoming the College of Law in 1900), the School of Music in 1897, the School of Pharmacy in 1896, the College of Physicians and Surgeons in 1897, the Library School in 1897, the School of Dentistry in 1901, and the Engineering Experiment Station in 1903. Enrollments grew, buildings were constructed, and under President Draper, the University of Illinois was first recognized as one of the great universities of America.

President Edmund Janes James, who served from 1904 to 1920 continued the great work of President Draper, in assembling a distinguished faculty; his administration was characterized by the emphasis on great teaching and high academic ideals. In 1913, the College of Literature and Arts, and College of Sciences were united to form the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences. The School of Education, established in 1905 was made a College in 1918, the College of Commerce and Business Administration was established in 1915; the State Surveys on the campus were united into the State Natural History Survey in 1917.

President David Kinley, acting president from 1919 to 1920 and president from 1920 to 1930, carried the work of his two predecessors to a logical conclusion. Where President Draper had perhaps centered his work on internal organization and administration, President James had emphasized academic ideal and the building of a great faculty, President Kinley continued these two activities and in addition sealed sound relationships with the officials and people of the State. An extensive building program was carried on, and the decade was one of great confidence in the University.

President Harry Woodburn Chase, serving from 1930 to 1933, saw the addition of three units: the College of Fine and Applied Arts in 1931, the School of Physical Education in 1932, and the Extension Division in 1933; the School of Journalism was established in 1927 under President Kinley. During the administration of President Chase, the University undertook a vast program of self examination which resulted in marked administrative changes.

Acting President Arthur H. Daniels served for one year from 1933 to 1934, as the interim chief administrator between the administrations of President Chase and President Willard. President Daniels had served on the faculty under four presidents, and for many years was dean of the Graduate School.

President Arthur Cutts Willard, elected in 1934 and the present president of the University, an internationally famous engineer before his election as president, has continued the distinguished work of the Presidents who have preceded him. He has already seen the University grow to its greatest enrollment of students and faculty. Under his administration, the three colleges of the University in Chicago, Medicine, Dentistry, and Pharmacy have reached new standards of organization and professional recognition. Research and internal organization have progressed. Perhaps the outstanding work of President Willard to date has been a building program which has reached every phase of student life and which has included the new Illini Union Building, touching the social life of the student, the Residence Halls for Men meeting living needs, the addition to McKinley Hospital for better health facilities, Gregory Hall, a new classroom building, an addition to the library, a new power plant which services the University in its operation, and the new Natural Resources building which deals in research and state services. At present his duties are centered in directing the activities of the University to make the greatest possible contribution to the nation in its emergency.

OF TRUSTEES

KARL A. MEYER
President, Board of Trustees

The University of Illinois is 75 years old this year. It is still in its youth as compared with many sister institutions, but its record is one of achievement and service, and it is rich in traditions of which students, faculty, and alumni may well be proud.

The founders of the University were men of great vision and courage, but even many of their fondest hopes have been exceeded. What those who have gone before us have done during the first 75 years of the University's life will be an inspiration to achieve even greater glory in the future.

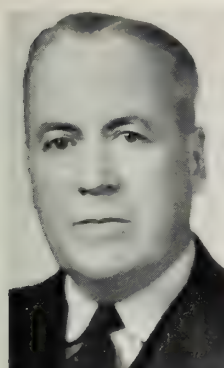

Alumni of the University have previously served in two major wars. As this is being written, over 8,000 are now in the armed forces of our country and their number is steadily increasing. Over 350 members of the faculty and staff are now participating in military and other defense services. When the war is over, they will have become a part of a great Illini tradition of service to their country.

On the home front, the R.O.T.C. is carrying on its training of over 4,500 men, and the educational program of the University has been accelerated. Scientific research and special courses of instruction on war problems are important contributions of staff members.

In the name of the Board of Trustees of the University of Illinois I extend greetings to all Illini and our felicitations to the entire University family on this 75th anniversary of our Alma Mater.

OFFICE OF THE DEAN OF MEN

The Office of the Dean of Men at the University of Illinois is another of the "firsts" in the educational world for which the University is famous.

In the spring of 1901, President Andrew Sloan Draper created a new position in the faculty of the University of Illinois, and a new position in the field of education, when he appointed Professor Thomas Arkle Clark as Dean of Undergraduates. The duties of the new officer were to deal with undergraduate students in the fields of class attendance, discipline, and delinquent scholarship.

Dean Clark was eminently successful, and his work was copied by almost every college and university in the country. He was one of the founders of the National Association of Deans and Advisors of Men in 1919. When he retired in 1931, he was succeeded by Fred H. Turner, formerly Assistant Dean of Men, who served as Acting Dean of Men in 1931-32, and was appointed Dean of Men in 1932.

The work of the Dean of Men includes individual counseling, social adjustments, personal problems outside the academic field, employment and placement, housing, loans, scholarships, social events, fraternities, extracurricular activities and organizations, group affairs and events, and orientation. Other staff members at present include: Edward E. Stafford, Assistant Dean for Freshmen and Foreign Students; Gerald W. Peck, Assistant Dean in charge of Student Employment; V. James Hampton, Assistant Dean in charge of Organization Finances; Stanfield S. Taylor, Assistant to the Dean, on leave of absence for military service; and Durward G. Judy, Assistant to the Dean, on leave of absence for military service.

Fred H. Turner

FRED HAROLD TURNER
Dean of Men

The Dean of Men, Fred Harold Turner, was born in Hume, Illinois, on March 22, 1900. He was made assistant to Thomas Arkle Clark, Dean of Men, after graduating from the University of Illinois in 1922. In 1931, he received the degree of Doctor of Philosophy in Education. His thesis may be found in the library, as it is considered one of the most authoritative accounts ever made of the Illinois Industrial University. In 1932, he was awarded the full title of Dean of Men after serving as Acting Dean in the preceding year. In recent years several of his surveys of student life at the University have appeared in current magazines. Dean Turner is greatly interested in student organizations on the campus, and is a member of the Illini Board of Control. He is Secretary of the National Association of Deans and Advisors of Men, and Educational Adviser to the National Interfraternity Conference.

Dean Maria Leonard was born in Indianapolis, Indiana and received her high school education there. After graduation from Butler College, she continued her graduate work at Colorado College from which she received her Master of Arts degree. She accepted the position as Dean of Women and Professor of Mathematics at Idaho State Normal in Albion, Idaho. She left Idaho to become Dean of Women and Professor of Mathematics at Coe College in Cedar Rapids, Iowa. In 1937 she received a Litt.D. from that institution. Since 1923 she has served as Dean of Women at the University of Illinois. In 1924 Dean Leonard founded the national scholastic honorary, Alpha Lambda Delta, for freshmen women.

MARIA LEONARD
Dean of Women

OFFICE OF THE DEAN OF WOMEN

Student life in war time brings many new questions for counsel to the Dean of Women's office. Complexities for parents and students alike are increased with severed relationships—financial stringencies, emergency war jobs, etc. These problems and many others come daily into the Dean of Women's office for a solution.

Mrs. Roberta Rosecrans and Miss Ruth Adkins, as Senior and Junior Assistant Deans respectfully, are ever ready to help both independent students and organization officers with advice, because all phases of student life are handled here. Counseling with the students on personal matters and with student officers on the organizations are of first importance to the Dean of Women's office. The office tries to secure for each student a program balanced between her scholastic work, social life, activities, and recreation; and to secure for organizations, steady group living.

Financial aid through loans and household employment is available to students who need help in financing their year's work.

The three thousand women students are sure to find help and advice in the Dean of Women's office at all times, as is evident by the many students and out-of-town visitors who call daily.

The Dean of Women's office is interested in encouraging cultural and high social standards through the group life in various campus houses in their social functions. The women's student houses have mature, cultured women in charge, who are responsible to the University, through the Dean of Women for maintaining these standards as outlined by the University.

COLLEGES AT URBANA

Seventy-five years ago, fifty students enrolled in the University of Illinois to begin concentrated study in this newly-established institution. They spent long hours studying agriculture, horticulture, and general education. The faculty soon rose from three professors to five, and as the years went on the attendance increased steadily. All plans for celebrating the fiftieth birthday of the University of Illinois were swept away in the rush of her sons and daughters to the support of their country in the first World War.

Now in 1943, as the University celebrates another birthday, its seventy-fifth, some three thousand seniors will be graduated under the new war-time accelerated program. Today's staff numbers twenty-one hundred as compared to the three professors who began instruction in 1867.

Now, as in 1918, the seniors will go forth equipped with a cultural as well as a technical knowledge—to again support America in her drive for peace.

COLLEGE OF

MATTHEW THOMPSON MCCLURE
Dean

Matthew Thompson McClure, Dean of The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, was born at Spottsford, Virginia, April 27, 1883. A Bachelor's degree was awarded him at Washington and Lee University in 1904, where he did his undergraduate work, a Master's degree at the University of Virginia in 1907, and a Doctor's degree at Columbia in 1912.

Before coming to Illinois, Dean McClure was an instructor in Philosophy at Columbia and from 1915 to 1921 a professor of Philosophy at Tulane. He began his career at Illinois in 1921 as associate professor in Philosophy. In 1922 he became Professor of Philosophy and in 1926 he was appointed head of that department. The deanship was awarded him in 1934 after serving a year as Acting Dean of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences. Dean McClure is a member of Theta Delta Chi, Phi Beta Kappa, Phi Kappa Phi, Phi Eta, Phi Eta Sigma, Delta Sigma Rho, The American Philosophical Association, and other honorary organizations.

The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences was formerly opened on July 1, 1913, with the Union of the Colleges of Literature and Arts and the College of Sciences. These two Colleges were recognized in 1873, when the first organization of the Illinois Industrial University on the basis of College units was announced. As a matter of fact, the Illinois Industrial University which became the University of Illinois in 1885 has never been without a College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, since it opened on March 2, 1868. The original curriculum established for the new Industrial University was based almost entirely on the classical model of the usual college of literature, arts, and sciences, with the addition of certain new, untried, and hopefully designed courses in agriculture and the mechanic arts.

The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, together with its predecessors, the College of Literature and Arts, and the College of Sciences has been the mother of numerous schools and colleges in the University of Illinois. Beginning with courses in literature, arts, and sciences, growing into departments, and finally withdrawing as individual schools or colleges, this College has sponsored: the School of Law, in 1896 (becoming the College of Law in 1900), the School of Music in 1897, the School of Education (becoming the College of Education in 1918), the College of Commerce and Business Administration in 1915, the School of Journalism in 1927, and the Divisions of the College of Fine and Applied Arts in 1931.

HISTORICALLY SPEAKING

LAURENCE MARCELLUS LARSON
1868-1938

Laurence Marcellus Larson was born near Bergen, Norway, but spent his childhood and youth on an Iowa farm. Educated at Drake University and the University of Wisconsin, he taught history in the University of Illinois from 1907 until 1937, and for the last seventeen years he served as head of the history department. He died as president of the American Historical Association, the highest honor that can come to any scholar in history. It was Larson's integrity that made him great. His refusal to be content with anything except the exact truth made him an outstanding scholar in the field of medieval Scandinavian history. His clear honesty of purpose and his courage made him a trusted leader among his colleagues in the cause of greater democracy in education. The thoroughness of his teaching and the inspiration of his character made each of his thousands of students an abler man and a better citizen.

—THEODORE C. PEASE.

STUART PRATT SHERMAN
1881-1926

Critic, essayist, wit, actor, he gave to Illinois a large tolerance and a zest for humane living, and for the richness and variety of America that after twenty years still dominates the department he headed. It was his privilege to be an inspiration to his students and colleagues, and theirs to live more happily and wisely for having known him. I have seen a roomful of people, all of whom knew him well, get up and go to the window because someone looking out remarked, "There goes Stuart Sherman". It seemed to them an event. Though he had a curious theory that you get more of a man from his works than from his presence, his essays, capacious and intelligent as they are, seem but shadows compared with Stuart himself. It is pleasant to be part of a university whose mind he once moulded. He was an American in the great tradition.

—R. BRUCE WEIRICK.

JAMES WILFORD GARNER
1871-1938

James Wilford Garner served as head of the department of political science of the University of Illinois from 1904 until his death in 1938. At first he taught all the courses in political science. Beginning in 1908, however, he began to add other scholars to the department until he had built up one of the most distinguished departments in the country. This enabled Professor Garner to devote his main attention to the field of international law and relations. For many years he devoted all his strength to the cause of a decent and enlightened policy in international relations.

To those who knew him, Professor Garner will be remembered not only as a political scientist of international reputation, but as a true gentleman and a warm friend. He was always ready to devote his best efforts to the advancement of the interests of the students, the faculty, and the University.

—JOHN M. MATHEWS.

HISTORICALLY SPEAKING

SAMUEL WILSON PARR
1857-1931

In his community, Professor Parr, always a striking figure, was noted for his unfailing personal interest in civic affairs as a citizen, in his students as a teacher, and in the University as a counsellor for the Y.M.C.A., athletic interests, and any movement for the progress of the institution. He was known throughout Illinois because the practical applications of his industrial research were of inestimable value to his native state. He was recognized through the country by his fellow chemists who elected him to the presidency of the American Chemical Society in honor of his accomplishments. His name was a familiar one to his international colleagues through the Parr calorimeter made from a valuable alloy whose composition was established on this campus. This wise and friendly man was one of that group in the middle period of her history who helped to bring the University of Illinois to the position in which she stands today.

—VIRGINIA BARTOW.

STEPHEN ALFRED FORBES
1844-1930

Stephen Alfred Forbes served in the cavalry of the federal army during most of the Civil War, ranging in rank from a private to a captain. During the last fifty years of his life he continuously held several important and responsible positions. He was Director of the State Laboratory of Natural History; fourth State Entomologist of Illinois; Chief of the Natural History Survey; Professor of Zoology and Entomology; Head of the Department of Entomology; and Dean of the College of Science.

Noted as a teacher, administrator and research worker in the fields of entomology, ecology, ichthyology, ornithology, aquatic biology, and conservation, he became internationally famous as: "the Dean of American Economic Entomologists", "the first economic ornithologist in America", "Founder of the Science of Ecology", and "leader in the study of aquatic biology".

Although he never graduated from college, his remarkable work earned for him both the degrees of Doctor of Philosophy and Doctor of Laws.

—CLELL L. METCALF.

WILLIAM ALBERT NOYES
1857-1941

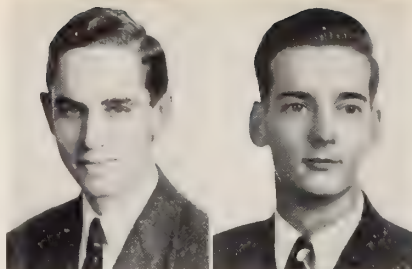

If immortality consists partly in the influence of a man upon his contemporaries and in turn their influence upon successive generations, then Professor Noyes' name is secure in chemistry for all time. By the painstaking selection of his staff and his remarkable ability to balance close cooperation with freedom to these men in their pursuit of research problems, Professor Noyes attracted to Illinois a progressive faculty and an ever-increasing corps of students, who in their turn inherited and then bequeathed his spirit and educational values. The department so established is equal to any in the country. To this devotion to his field of work he added an intense interest in philosophy, religion, and international peace. Numerous personal honors for his accomplishments are a matter of record. Most significantly in this community, the chemistry building at Illinois was named for him before his death and will bear always the name of William Albert Noyes.

COLLEGE OF

HIRAM T. SCOVILL
Acting Dean

Born on a farm near Leaf River, Illinois, and educated in the public schools of Rockford, Illinois, Professor Scovill was graduated from the University of Illinois in 1908 with final honors. After spending five years in the practice of public accountancy in Chicago, he returned to the University in 1913 to join the staff as an instructor in accountancy. In 1919 he became professor of accountancy and head of the Department of Business Organization and Operation. Since March, 1942, he has served as Acting Dean of the College of Commerce during a leave of absence granted Dean Thompson. He is a certified public accountant, having received the gold medal of the Illinois Society for obtaining the highest grade in the examination.

In addition to several books on accounting and numerous articles, Professor Scovill has contributed materially to the literature of his field through handbooks and special treatises, and since 1925 as editor of the Wiley Accounting Series of textbooks. Professor Scovill has served as president of the Illinois Society of Certified Public Accountants and of the American Accounting Association.

He is a member of the following fraternities: Phi Beta Kappa, Beta Gamma Sigma (past national president), and Beta Alpha Psi (past national president). He was one of the first group of six seniors to be elected to Phi Beta Kappa following the installation of a chapter at Illinois in 1907.

In 1902, courses in Commerce were established at the University of Illinois, having as their objectives, the training of citizens and businessmen who could understand the underlying principles of economics and the fundamental concepts of sound business organization and operation to the end that they might help in a better execution of the growing complexities of business and fiscal phases of government. By 1915 such substantial progress had been made that the College of Commerce and Business Administration was organized with two departments, one designated Economics and the other Business Organization and Operation.

As the University commemorates its seventy-fifth anniversary, the College of Commerce is proud to participate and cooperate by observing the fortieth anniversary of its christening as courses in commerce. It is very significant that Dr. David Kinley, president emeritus of the University, founder of the courses in commerce in 1902 and director of the courses until 1915; and organizer of the College of Commerce, now in his eighty-second year should have been able to accept a position on the program celebrating the seventy-fifth and fortieth anniversaries respectively of the University and of the courses in commerce in March, 1943. The University owes an inexpressible debt of gratitude to such substantial pioneers in its educational advancement.

HISTORICALLY SPEAKING

DAVID KINLEY
1861-

When any history of the University of Illinois is written it cannot be authentic without revealing the tremendous influence of Dr. David Kinley on the growth and development of the institution. As professor of economics, and founder of the courses in commerce, and later of the College of Commerce and Business Administration, as dean of the College of Literature and Arts, dean of the Graduate School, and president of the University, he helped mold a future for the University which has placed him in the front rank of the all-time great men of the University.

As president emeritus since 1930, he has been ready to give advice whenever asked to do so. It is a great asset to have on the campus such an able and experienced administrator, so vitally interested in and acquainted with all phases of University responsibilities.

During his long and busy career as a University official, Dr. Kinley found time also to serve his country at home and abroad as an economic adviser on monetary and other fiscal problems.

—HIRAM T. SCOVILL.

NATHAN AUSTIN WESTON
1868-1933

As professor of economics, Nathan Austin Weston to the time of his death had served the University of Illinois during the entire life of the College of Commerce; both in its embryo stages from 1902 to 1915 when it was designated as "courses in commerce," and in its more formal and active period as a college. He served as first dean of the college, 1915 to 1919, and resigned the deanship to devote his time and energies to research in economics and to the teaching of graduate students. The pattern of the curricula of the college reflects the soundness of Dr. Weston's ideas on commercial education at the collegiate level.

It was in his capacity as a teacher of graduate courses that he made his greatest reputation. He had a keen mind for analyzing economic problems and for presenting solutions thereof. As his former students became identified with other educational institutions and with business and government as consulting economists, Dr. Weston's name spread from coast to coast.

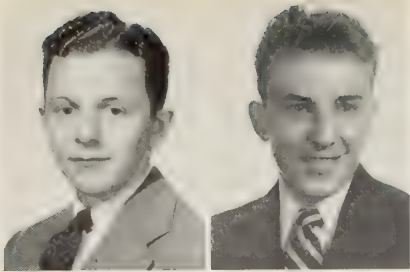

—HIRAM T. SCOVILL.

COLLEGE OF

MELVIN LORENIUS ENGER
Dean

Melvin Lorenius Enger, Professor of Mechanics and Hydraulics, since 1934 Dean of the College of Engineering and Director of the Engineering Experiment Station, was born May 5, 1881, in Decorah, Iowa. He attended the University of Minnesota and the University of Illinois where he received the Bachelor of Science degree in Civil Engineering in 1906 and later the C.E. and M.S. degrees. He came to the University in September, 1907, as instructor in Theoretical and Applied Mechanics, and has served on the faculty since that time. From 1926 to 1934 he was head of the department of Theoretical and Applied Mechanics. Dean Enger is an honorary member of Triangle and is a member of many engineering societies and honorary fraternities.

The developments in engineering in the seventy-five years since the founding of the University of Illinois have revolutionized modern civilization. In these developments the College of Engineering has made substantial contributions through the investigations and writings of its faculty, through nearly forty years of organized research in the Engineering Experiment Station, and especially through the work of the graduates of the College. The astonishing developments and advances in engineering and industrial production during the war has created an unprecedented demand for engineers. In addition to the regular curricula in engineering, specialized courses have been provided to meet the needs of the Army and the Navy. The College is cooperating with the Division of University Extension and the United States Department of Education in training workers in war industries in many cities of the State.

HISTORICALLY SPEAKING

NATHAN CLIFFORD RICKER
1843-1924

IRA OSBORN BAKER
1853-1925

ARTHUR NEWELL TALBOT
1857-1942

Dr. Nathan Clifford Ricker is one of the great figures in University history. A member of Illinois' first graduating class, he was the first in America to be granted a degree in Architecture.

After study and travel in Europe, he became the University's first professor of Architecture, a position which he held for fifty-two years. In the early days, Professor Ricker had many duties. He was the architect of several campus structures; he was for twenty-seven years Dean of the College of Engineering; and for thirty-eight years head of the Department of Architecture. He established the Engineering Experiment Station and laid broad foundations upon which our distinguished College of Engineering was erected.

An accomplished scholar, a sympathetic teacher, an able administrator and the translator from the German and French of over fifty volumes on Architecture, his name is today perpetuated in Ricker Library of Architecture of which he was also the founder.

— REXFORD NEWCOMB.

Ira Osborn Baker graduated from the University of Illinois (then Illinois Industrial University) in 1874, and immediately began his teaching career as assistant in physics and civil engineering. In 1878 he became the second head of the Department of Civil Engineering, a position he filled with distinction for nearly forty years.

An enthusiastic instructor, he has been characterized as "one of the great teachers of civil engineering in the history of American education", and is known as the founder of the "Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education".

In addition to being a great teacher, Professor Baker was a clear and forceful writer and received international recognition for his works in the field of civil engineering.

In 1924 he established the Ira Osborn Baker Prize in Civil Engineering to give recognition each year to the two seniors whose achievements most nearly met the ideals set up by Dr. Baker.

— THOMAS C. SHEDD.

Professor Arthur Newell Talbot, a graduate of the University of Illinois in 1881, had a very large influence in determining the high quality of work of the College of Engineering in its early years and in directing the subsequent development of that college.

In his teaching and research work in the fields of Sanitary Engineering and Theoretical and Applied Mechanics for more than sixty years, from 1885 to 1942, he insisted on intellectual alertness and high standards of achievements for both students and faculty. These did much to give the college a high standing in the engineering, educational, and professional fields. He also had a friendly interest in students as individuals and in their subsequent professional progress, an interest which helped to develop many loyal alumni. His many research contributions which led to improvements in engineering practice made him an outstanding figure in the engineering profession. Engineering students will benefit for many years to come from his unusually fruitful life.

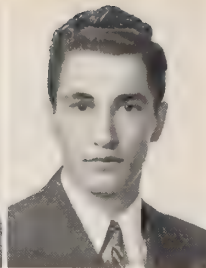

— FRED B. SFELY.

COLLEGE OF

HENRY PERLY RUSK
Dean

Henry Perly Rusk, Dean of the College of Agriculture, was born on a farm near Rantoul, Illinois, July 19, 1884. He was graduated from Valparaiso University, Valparaiso, Indiana, in 1904. He then studied at the University of Missouri, receiving his Bachelor of Science degree in 1908 and his Master of Science award in 1911.

After two years' service in Missouri and Indiana, he came to the University of Illinois in 1910 as associate in beef cattle husbandry. After a number of advancements, he was made head of the department on September 1, 1922. Seventeen years later he became fourth Dean of the College of Agriculture, Director of the Extension Service in Agriculture and Home Economics, and Director of the Agricultural Experiment Station. He is widely known as a stockman and is a member of the American Society of Animal Production, Sigma Xi, Alpha Zeta, Gamma Sigma Delta, Alpha Gamma Rho, Farmhouse, and Rotary International.

War industries and the armed forces have taken from Illinois farms many young men and women, who, in normal times, would be enrolled as students in the College of Agriculture. Many others are being kept at home because of the critical farm labor situation. Further decline in the number of students is anticipated. Those who are fortunate enough to continue their training will have a wonderful opportunity for service, for men trained in agriculture and women trained in home economics are needed now as never before; and conditions in the post-war period may be just as critical.

The demands of our armed forces, our Allies, and the people on the home front place a great responsibility upon American agriculture. Secretary Wickard has said that food will win the war and write the peace. The imperative need for increased production of foods, fats, and oil can be met only by the more general adoption of improved practices based on the results of research conducted by our experiment stations. Members of the College, Station and Extension staffs are devoting a large share of their time to the dissemination of information vital to the war effort. Students in Agriculture, and Home Economics will be inspired and stimulated by contact with this program, as well as encouraged by a faculty interested, as always, in the students' personal welfare.

ISABEL BEAVER
1860-1942

There was no precedent for Isabel Beaver to follow when she came to the University in 1900 to establish a department of household science. For twenty-one years she served as its head. Her ideal is expressed in a statement she made during the tragic days of the first World War: "Home economics, in either peace or war, has a chance to teach something of the beauty of life and the unity of life, to teach that there is an art in a well-ordered home and a well-ordered life, and that perhaps is the greatest thing that home economics has to do."

Her distinguished leadership in the profession was due to her high standard of scholarship, the accuracy of her judgment, her never-failing sense of humor, the warmth of her understanding sympathy, the beauty of her gracious womanliness, and the greatness of her generosity and human kindness.

—J. LITA BANE.

EUGENE DAVENPORT

A statesman in the field of education, Eugene Davenport was one of the great figures in the development of agricultural instruction and research in this country. When Dean Davenport came to the University in 1895, the only resources of the College of Agriculture were "a model of tile and stone drains, a classroom in the basement and one in the attic, no students." He relinquished his responsibilities twenty-seven years later after having seen the institution rise to front rank and establish an enviable reputation that was world-wide.

Through his vision, his organizing ability, his facility in correlating fields of knowledge, and his power to quicken the minds and aspirations both of his contemporaries and of the younger men who came under his leadership, Dean Davenport left an indelible imprint not only on the affairs of the University of Illinois but on those of the State and Nation as well.

—ANNA C. GLOVER

GEORGE ESPY MORROW
1840-1900

Professor of agriculture from 1876 to 1894, George Espy Morrow brought international fame to the University of Illinois through establishment of the Morrow plots on the South Campus. They are the oldest of their kind in America and recognized world wide as a monument to the tragedy of unheeded soil impoverishment.

Morrow was a talented speaker and a popular member of the programs at farmers' institutes. A versatile writer, he was widely known through his contributions to magazines.

All through the discouraging period of years during which he was head of the agricultural department and dean of the college, he managed to keep and even build up the good-will of farmers in the state, although enrollment in the college dropped to twenty-one in ten years and was down to eleven shortly before he resigned.

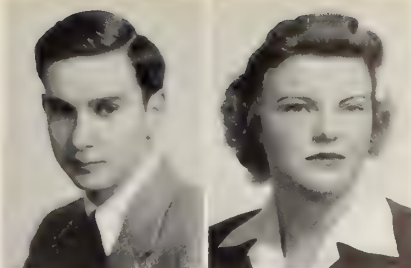

After he left Illinois, he served as president of Oklahoma A. & M. for four years until his death in 1900.

—FERDINAND J. KEILHOIZ.

COLLEGE OF

THOMAS ELIOT BENNER
Dean

Thomas Eliot Benner, Dean of the College of Education, was born in Danvers, Massachusetts, February 11, 1894. He was graduated from Harvard in 1914 (A.B.); received graduate degrees from the same university in 1916 (A.M.), 1923 (Ed.M.), 1924 (Ed.D.). His professional experience has included teaching in Maryland and Maine, public school administration in Massachusetts, service as statistician and editor with the Alabama State Department of Education, the acting deanship of the College of Education of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, the chancellorship of the University of Puerto Rico, and the visiting professorship at Columbia University. Since 1931 he has been Dean of the College of Education at the University of Illinois. He served as a member of a commission to investigate vocational education in Illinois, as Chairman of the Advisory Committee to the Educational Commission of the Illinois State Legislature in 1935, and as a member of the commission named by President Roosevelt to report on Puerto Rico as a center of inter-American education in 1939. He is a member of Phi Delta Kappa and Kappa Delta Pi, and holds office in several national professional organizations.

The College of Education had its origin in 1893 under the influence and teaching of Charles de Garmo, Professor of Psychology. In 1900, a Department of Education was set up, which became in 1907 the School of Education and in 1918 received its present title, the College of Education.

The number of students at the University of Illinois who annually complete their preparation to teach in elementary or high schools is more than one-fourth of the number who receive June bachelor's degrees from the University. In 1941-42, the number who thus prepared was 27.3 per cent of the total number receiving bachelor's degrees in June of 1941.

On the undergraduate level the College of Education offers the professional preparation of these prospective elementary and high school teachers. On the graduate level it offers advanced professional preparation for teachers, supervisors, principals and superintendents of schools and prepares faculty members to teach and to carry on research in Education in colleges and universities.

COLLEGE OF

REXFORD NEWCOMB
Dean

Rexford Newcomb, Dean of the College of Fine and Applied Arts, received his training at the Universities of Kansas, Illinois, and Southern California. His academic studies have been supplemented by wide travel in Europe and the Orient.

Before coming to the Illinois faculty in 1918, Dean Newcomb was for five years Director of the Department of Fine and Applied Arts at Long Beach Polytechnic (California) and for four years Director of Adult Education and Principal of The Long Beach Evening High School. He served also on the faculties of the University of Southern California, and the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas, at the latter institution as Professor of Architecture and College Architect.

Dean Newcomb was for ten years editor of the Western Architect, Chicago, has served as technical consultant in various connections, has lectured widely on the Fine Arts, and is the author of fourteen volumes and several hundred magazine articles in his field. He is a member of Phi Kappa Phi, Phi Beta Kappa, Sigma Xi, and various other honorary and professional organizations.

The College of Fine and Applied Arts is the youngest college on the campus. This does not mean, however, that instruction in the Arts is a new departure at Illinois. In fact, quite the contrary is true. In the original plans for an instructional program for Illinois Industrial University, Regent Gregory included "A course in Architecture and Fine Arts" and one in "Horticulture and Landscape Gardening." The first Annual Report of the Board of Trustees also announced "instruction in Vocal Music." From these modest beginnings, in time grew up strong departments of instruction in art, architecture, landscape architecture and music.

For nearly thirty years it was hoped that these aesthetic interests might be grouped into one administrative unit. Due to the lack of physical facilities, however, this was not possible until September, 1931, when the college was constituted. With a faculty of nearly eighty men and women and an enrollment that at times exceeds 800 professional students, together with some 1400 from other colleges of the University, instruction leading to appropriate degrees is offered in eleven options and curricula. This college looks forward to the next seventy-five years of service to the people of Illinois.

Rexford Newcomb.

SCHOOL OF

FREDRICK SEATON SIEBERT
Director

Fredrick Seaton Siebert was born December 13, 1902, at Tower, Minnesota. After graduating from the School of Journalism at the University of Wisconsin in 1923, he worked for several newspapers including the Hibbing (Minn.) Daily News, The Duluth Herald, and the Chicago Herald-Examiner. He joined the faculty of the University of Illinois in 1927, and was granted a degree of Doctor of Law in 1929. He was admitted to the Illinois bar the same year. During the year 1940-41 he served as professor of journalism at Northwestern University. He assumed the directorship of the School of Journalism on September 1, 1941.

The 75th anniversary of the establishment of the University also marks the 40th year of journalism instruction at the University and the 15th anniversary of the School of Journalism.

Previous to 1927, the year of the establishment of the School of Journalism, instruction in journalism was given under the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, first in 1903 in the department of Rhetoric and Oratory, then in 1907 in a division under Rhetoric, and in 1917 under a separate division in the department of English.

The first course in journalism was organized by the late Dean Thomas Arkle Clark. Dr. Harry Paul, one of the first teachers, was followed by Thatcher Howland Guild, who wrote the words to "Illinois Loyalty."

Dr. Frank W. Scott, who during his undergraduate days was editor of all the campus publications, including both the Illio and the Illini, took over the courses in journalism in 1905.

Dr. Harry Franklin Harrington began teaching journalism at the University in 1915 and later became head of the division. Other early teachers of journalism at Illinois include Elmo Scott Watson, Dix Harwood, F. A. Russell and H. M. Hodgson.

The School of Journalism is proud of the distinguished men who have served on its faculty. It is also proud of its 841 alumni, more than 150 of whom are now serving in the armed forces.

SCHOOL OF

SEWARD CHARLE STALEY
Director

Seward Charle Staley, Director of the School of Physical Education, was born at Sprakers, New York, on August 1, 1893. He secured a Bachelor's degree in Physical Education at Springfield College in 1917; a Master's degree in Hygiene at Clark University in 1920; and a Doctor's degree in Education at the University of Illinois in 1929. Professor Staley served as an athletic director in the army during 1917 and 1918. In 1920 and 1921 he served as Director of Athletics for the Greek Army in Asia Minor. He joined the staff of the Department of Physical Education at the University of Illinois in 1922, and was made Director of the School of Physical Education in 1937. He is the author of ten books and many articles in the field of physical education. Squash rackets and hiking are his chief sports; collecting books on the history of sport, his chief hobby.

The School of Physical Education, established in the fall of 1932, includes three departments: Physical Education for Men, Physical Education for Women, and Health Service.

The Department of Physical Education for Men renders three general services, namely, conducting the service courses (required of all students), conducting a professional training curriculum for students majoring in this field, and promoting a program of recreational sports for men.

The Department of Physical Education for Women conducts the service courses in physical education, a professional training curriculum, a program in intramural sports, and a program in faculty recreation for women.

The Department of Health Service in general gives health examinations to all students, confers with students about health problems, co-operates with the State Board of Health in controlling contagious diseases, regulates sanitary conditions on and about the campus, and conducts courses in sanitation and hygiene for both men and women.

THE COLLEGE OF LAW

ALBERT JAMES HARNO
Dean

Albert James Harno, Dean of the College of Law, was born January 30, 1889, in Holabird, South Dakota. After his graduation from Dakota Wesleyan University in 1911, he went to Yale, where he received the degree of Bachelor of Laws, magna cum laude, in 1914.

He practiced law in Los Angeles until 1917. Between 1917 and 1919 he was Dean of Washburn College of Law, Topeka, Kansas, and between 1919 and 1921, Professor of Law at the University of Kansas. In 1921 he was appointed Professor of Law at the University of Illinois, and, in 1922, Dean of the College. Since 1931 he has also served as Provost of the University.

He is a member from Illinois of the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws, Chairman of the Section of Legal Education of the American Bar Association, Past President of the Illinois State Bar Association, a member of the Advisory Committee on the Revision of the Statutes of the State of Illinois, and a member of the Advisory Board of the Division of Delinquency Prevention, State Department of Public Welfare. He is a fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, and member of Phi Beta Kappa, Order of the Coif, and Phi Kappa Phi.

The University of Illinois had been in existence for thirty years when, in 1897, the College of Law was established. It was the belief of Dr. Andrew S. Draper, the President of the University at that time, that the University would never reach the proportions of a true university until it included within its sphere a distinguished law school, and in this project he received the active and intelligent support of Honorable John P. Altgeld, then Governor of the State. Today a portrait of President Draper hangs in one of the reading rooms of the Law Library, where it serves to remind new generations of students of the great breadth and range of his vision. The building that houses the College is named Altgeld Hall in honor of Governor Altgeld and in memory of his interest in the College and his services to the University.

In the forty-five years since its founding, this College has kept pace with or has been a leader in movements for the advancement of standards of legal education.

The fundamental purpose of the College of Law is to train students for the practice of law. But that training involves more than the learning of legal rules and formulae. The College seeks to develop an appreciation of the highest ideals of the profession, a facility in legal scholarship, and a consciousness of the responsibility of the lawyer to society for furthering the wise development of law and its administration.

THE LIBRARY AND LIBRARY SCHOOL

The University Library is one of the foremost libraries in America. It contains over 1,240,000 volumes, and 375,000 pamphlets and other printed documents. This total collection, invaluable as an embodiment of the cultural heritage of modern man, spreads over roughly fifty miles of shelving. Expansion at an annual rate of about 40,000 volumes requires additional shelving of approximately one mile a year. To organize and make available these materials requires a full-time staff of 113, not including part-time employees and students.

The present main building, centrally located on the campus, consists of reading rooms and fifteen departmental libraries; there are fifteen other such libraries on the Urbana campus.

The University of Illinois Library School, established in 1893, is the oldest Library School west of the Alleghenies. It ranks as one of the outstanding library schools in the land. The program of the Library School is designed to prepare administrators and assistants for service in libraries of various types—public, school, college and university libraries, and such special types as hospital, newspaper, business, art and music libraries. Admission requirements include the presentation of a bachelor's degree. The curriculum leads to the degree of a Bachelor of Science in Library Science after one year of study, and to the Degree of Master of Science after two years of study.

Carl M. White

CARL MILTON WHITE
Director

Carl Milton White, Director of the University Library and Library School, was born August 12, 1903 at Burnett, Oklahoma. In 1928 he received the degree of Master of Arts, magna cum laude, from Mercer University, and later studied at the State University of Iowa and Cornell University, where he received the degree of Doctor of Philosophy in 1933. He received the professional degree, Bachelor of Science in Library Science, a year later at Columbia University.

Dr. White was Librarian of Fisk University, 1934-1938. In the summer of 1938 he was an instructor in Library Science at the University of Michigan. From 1938, until he came to the University of Illinois, September 1, 1940, to assume his present position, he served as Librarian, Professor of Library Science, and Chairman of the Division of the Library and Library School at the University of North Carolina.

ROBERT DANIEL CARMICHAEL
Dean

Robert Daniel Carmichael, Dean of the Graduate School, was born in Goodwater, Alabama, March 1, 1879. He was awarded his Bachelor's degree at Lineville College in 1898, and his Doctor of Philosophy degree at Princeton University in 1911. After coming to the University of Illinois in 1915 as Assistant Professor of Mathematics, he became Associate Professor in 1920. From 1929 to 1934 he was head of the Department of Mathematics. In 1933 he was appointed acting Dean of the Graduate School, and a year later he became Dean. He has published several hundred articles on mathematical, philosophical, and scientific subjects, and is the author of several volumes on these subjects. Some of his works have been re-published in French translations.

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL

The principal aim of graduate study is the development of the power and the promotion of the spirit of investigation. The student who pursues an extended course is expected to obtain a wide knowledge of his subject and of related fields of investigation, and also to acquire and begin to use the power of extending the range of what is known.

Scholarships and fellowships, established by the University Board of Trustees, are open to graduate students of exceptional ability and promise. Funds are available from several special sources for the support of additional fellowships, the purpose of which is to promote higher education and to contribute to the extension and diffusion of knowledge. Several important individual research programs are encouraged and helped forward by the aid of resources which have been made available through the Graduate School and the Research Board. Some of these are of very great value in the social process.

THE DIVISION OF UNIVERSITY EXTENSION

The Division of University Extension has had its work affected by the impact of the war, more, possibly, than any other part of the University. Its correspondence courses go to many parts of the world, to follow students now in the widely dispersed armed forces. Its regular extra-mural courses have felt the effects of travel restrictions, which interfered with the growth of this phase of extension work. War training courses for industry, however, have been conducted on the campus and in thirty-six manufacturing centers under the Federal Engineering Science and Management War Training program. The Division of University Extension has a total enrollment, at the time this is written, of more than twelve thousand students. Its lending library of educational motion pictures is one of the largest in the country. The Division has provided for the instruction in a number of service schools on the campus for both the Army and the Navy.

ROBERT BELL BROWNE
Director

Robert Bell Browne, Director of the Division of University Extension, was born in Oshkosh, Wisconsin, on July 15, 1894. After attending the Southern Illinois State Teachers College, he entered the University of Illinois. Because his education was interrupted by his serving in the United States Army, he did not complete his graduation until the summer of 1922. After serving nine years as a high school principal and city school superintendent, he returned to the University of Illinois in 1929 to become an instructor in Education. His advanced degrees of Master of Science and Doctor of Philosophy were conferred by this University. At the time of the inauguration of University Extension he was appointed its first director. He has been in charge of the Division since that time.

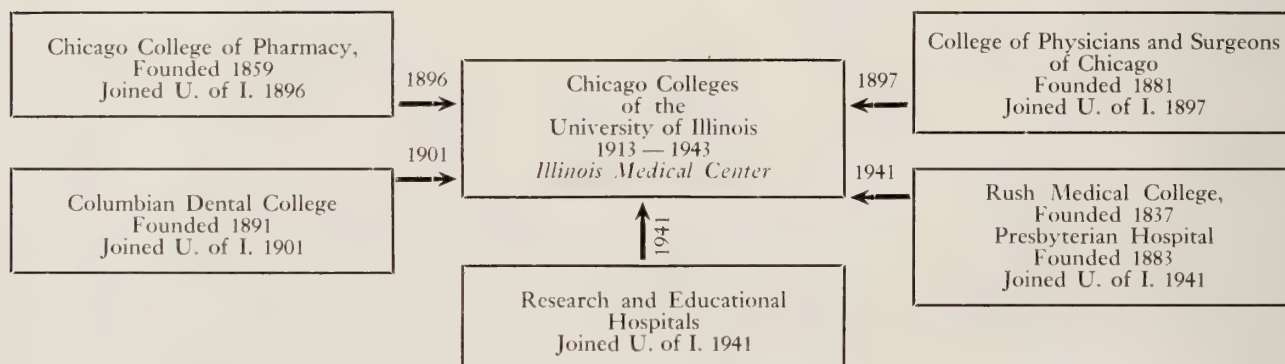

ILLINI HALL

COLLEGES AT CHICAGO

The early history of the University of Illinois in Chicago is illustrated by the following diagram:

Here we see the College of Pharmacy pre-dating the Civil War and surviving the 1871 fire. We also see three separate schools and Hospitals finally rounding up together as an integrated part of the University of Illinois. The dates given in the chart show the first affiliation and the final integration of the medical and dental colleges which did not occur until 1913 and 1941.

The present campus was once the baseball park of the Chicago Cubs, and Dean Davis has observed that his desk approximates the place formerly occupied by home plate. In addition to the "DMP" Building (Dentistry, Medicine, and Pharmacy), which extends from Wood to Wolcott Streets and upwards to some 14 stories in height, the University operates the Research and Education Hospital and Dispensary for medical teaching where students may see as many as 150,000 patients annually—and the Dental Dispensary caring for some 6,000 each year. In addition, since 1941, the University uses the facilities of Presbyterian Hospital for teaching purposes. For many years also it has had the privilege of teaching in Cook County Hospital, an institution of 3,300 beds.

The Illinois Surgical Institute for Children, the Illinois Neuropsychiatric Institute and the Institute for Juvenile Research, all operated jointly by the State Department of Public Welfare and the University provide extensive additional specialized facilities for study. These three institutes are located in the same block and connect directly with the University's buildings.

Altogether the Chicago campus program constitutes one of the largest and best medical center activities in the country which in several particulars is unique.

RAYMOND BERNARD ALLEN

Executive Dean of the Chicago Colleges

Raymond Bernard Allen, Executive Dean of the Chicago Colleges, was born in Cathay, North Dakota, on August 7, 1902. He attended the University of Minnesota where he received the degrees of Bachelor of Science in 1924, Master of Arts in 1925, and Doctor of Medicine in 1928. He was an assistant in Anatomy at the University of Minnesota from 1924 to 1927 and a fellow on the Mayo Foundation from 1930 to 1933. On the basis of his work in the graduate Faculties of the University of Minnesota and the Mayo Foundation the degree of Doctor of Philosophy was granted in 1934. From 1933 to 1936 he was Associate Dean in charge of graduate studies at the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Columbia University, and Associate Director of the New York Post-graduate Medical School and Hospital, Columbia University. He served as Dean of Wayne University College of Medicine from May, 1936, to September, 1939, when he took up his duties as Executive Dean of the Chicago Colleges.

HOWARD MITCHELL MARJERISON
Dean

Dean Howard Mitchell Marjerison was born in Lawrence, Massachusetts, on November 19, 1895. He received the degree of Doctor of Dental Medicine from Tufts College in 1916, and the following year interned at The Forsyth Dental Infirmary for Children. In 1917 Dean Marjerison joined the staff of Tufts College Dental School as Instructor in Prosthetic Dentistry, holding various ranks up to Associate Professor and Head of the Department of Crown and Bridge and Partial Denture Prosthesis. He became Acting Dean of the Dental School at Tufts College in 1933 and Dean in 1934, and was appointed Dean of the University of Illinois College of Dentistry on September 1, 1940.

Dean Marjerison is a Trustee of The Forsyth Dental Infirmary for Children, and a member of the National Board of Dental Examiners, the American Academy of Dental Science, the Robert R. Andrews Honorary Society, and the International Association for Dental Research.

COLLEGE OF DENTISTRY

The College of Dentistry was founded in 1892 as a proprietary institution under the name of the Columbian Dental College. In 1901 it obtained a nominal affiliation with the University of Illinois and in 1913 it was established as an organic part of the University.

In 1938 the College of Dentistry was moved to the east wing of the Medical Center of the University of Illinois in Chicago, which provided unsurpassed facilities and enhanced the opportunity for integrating the teaching and research programs of dentistry, medicine and pharmacy.

Since its inception the College of Dentistry of the University of Illinois has been in the vanguard of those colleges which have maintained the highest educational standards. The course of instruction leading to the degree of Doctor of Dental Surgery is four years in length, with two years of credit from a college of liberal arts and sciences as an admission requirement.

It is the aim of the College of Dentistry not only to train competent practitioners for the community, but to promote scholarly investigation and research with a view toward refining and improving methods of treatment and control.

COLLEGE OF MEDICINE

DAVID JOHN DAVIS
Dean

David John Davis, Dean of the College of Medicine, spent many years in study and research before coming to Illinois. He was born in Racine, Wisconsin, on August 10, 1875, and studied first at the Racine Academy. From the University of Wisconsin he received his Bachelor of Science degree in 1898 and his M.D. degree from Rush Medical College in 1904. In Europe he continued his studies at Vienna and Freiberg, and then returned to the United States to carry out his research work in Chicago at the McCormick Institute for Infectious Diseases. Before coming to Illinois he served as pathologist at St. Luke's Hospital in Chicago. In 1913 he came to the College of Medicine as Professor of Pathology and Bacteriology. He has written several treatises on Bacteriology and is the author of numerous other medical papers. He began serving as Acting Dean in April, 1925, and succeeded to the Deanship in September, 1925.

On October 14, 1881, the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Chicago opened. In 1897 it became affiliated with the University of Illinois and in 1900 the name was officially changed to the "College of Medicine of the University of Illinois."

The purpose of the College is to qualify students to undertake the practice of medicine. The membership of each class is strictly limited because of the limitations of space.

The program of the undergraduate student during the full course in medicine is arranged so that the work of the freshman and sophomore years is confined mainly to the fundamental sciences. In the junior and senior years, emphasis is placed upon practical instruction in the dispensary and hospital clinics. Upon graduation from the College of Medicine, each student spends a year of internship in a hospital approved by the University.

Because of the war, the College is giving a continuous program of medical education, operating on a four-quarter schedule, so that the standard four-year medical curriculum may be completed in three years. In addition to adopting the accelerated program the College is cooperating with the War Department in every possible way.

Last year the Rush Medical College and Presbyterian Hospital became affiliated with the University. The affiliation has enlarged notably the clinical facilities of the College of Medicine.

The College of Medicine, located in the very heart of the medical center of Chicago, is one of the largest medical schools in the country and ranks high in the professional world.

EARL ROY SERLES
Dean

Earl Roy Serles was born near Salem, South Dakota, November 18, 1890. By 1917, he had received his Ph.G., B.S. in Pharmacy, and M.S. in Chemistry and Pharmacy from South Dakota State College. He received his Ph.D. in Pharmacology from the University of Minnesota in 1934. From 1913-1940 he served on the faculty of South Dakota State College of Pharmacy and was dean from 1923-1940. In 1940 he came to the Chicago campus of the University of Illinois, as Dean of the College of Pharmacy.

He is a member of the American Pharmaceutical Association and the United States Pharmacopœia Revision Committee. He was formerly a member of the Advisory Council of the South Dakota Public Health Association, and President of the American Association of Certified Pharmacists, 1938-1939, and is a member of Gamma Alpha and Rho Chi fraternities, and Blue Key. He served in the Medical Corps during the World War. Dean Serles has contributed many articles on pharmacy to scientific journals and other publications and is well known for his discoveries and experimentation.

COLLEGE OF PHARMACY

Formal instruction for students desiring to enter the field of Pharmacy, was first instituted by the Chicago College of Pharmacy in 1859.

The University of Illinois College of Pharmacy now offers many special advantages that were unknown to that early program. Replacing the former single curriculum required of all students, those with specific qualifications and inclinations are privileged now to elect special courses in pharmacy at the end of their sophomore year of college.

Adequate equipment and laboratory space which will accommodate a beginning class of 100 students has been secured. The teaching staff is a well-trained, aggressive group of individuals who have specialized in the various fields of pharmaceutical endeavor.

Graduate work is being developed on a formal basis, in order to meet the ever-increasing demands for well-trained men in the related fields, such as biochemistry, analytical chemistry, the manufacturing of scientific drugs, cultivation and development of crude drugs, and, to a lesser degree, the technics of manufacturing pharmacy.

The affiliation of the College of Pharmacy with that of Medicine and Dentistry affords a more comprehensive approach to the solution of public health problems common to all three professions.

UNDERCLASSES

It was back in the Gay Nineties . . . when sophomore dudes strolled down the Boardwalk in stylishly tight shoes . . . and their wasp-waisted belles “simply expired” to have a new ulster or the latest shaker bonnet . . .

It was back in the Gay Nineties . . . when class spirit raged in the annual fight of the underclassmen to destroy the senior tree . . . when football was unheard of and fraternities were forbidden . . .

It was back in the Gay Nineties . . . when streets and horse-cars were always muddy . . . when every freshman was on intimate terms with the boneyard but not with the sophomores . . . when an enterprising junior could look forward to the presidency of his literary society or of the senior class . . .

In 1943, University underclassmen compete just as vigorously for honors and scholarship recognition. They are united—the backbone of a teeming, progressive University. They are future leaders, potential scientists, artists, musicians, farmers, engineers, and journalists of 1953. But today they are underclassmen.

SCHOLASTIC HONORS

Honors Day . . . since 1925 a day of recognition for the students ranking highest in scholarship in their respective classes.

Bronze Tablet . . . since 1925 an indelible record for all to view . . . the highest in scholastic attainment for seniors.

Phi Eta Sigma . . . since 1923 reward for the scholastic efforts of freshman men . . . a national organization founded at the University of Illinois by Thomas A. Clark, Charles M. Thompson, and Kendric C. Babcock.

Alpha Lambda Delta . . . since 1924 goal of freshman Illinae . . . a national organization founded at the University of Illinois by Miss Maria Leonard.

Phi Kappa Phi . . . since 1933 at the University of Illinois . . . honoring high scholarship of seniors in all colleges and schools of the University. Phi Kappa Phi was founded nationally in 1897.

All of these honors and more, have long been the ultimate goal of students, who, anxious for success in college, have also better prepared themselves as citizens.

It is only fitting, therefore, that in the following pages we place the names of those students, who to a high degree of excellence, have learned to acquire knowledge.

ATHLETIC ADMINISTRATION

Convinced that competitive athletics have a big part in strengthening the young manhood of the nation for service in the armed forces, an opinion indorsed by Army and Navy leaders, those in charge of Illinois athletics saw their task as one of carrying on as extensive a program as possible under present conditions.

While approximately three hundred and fifty alumni varsity lettermen served their country on land, on sea, and in the air, their successors, the athletes of 1942-43, did their part on gridirons, fields and floors, fitting themselves for the time when they too would be called.

The showing of the football team under our new coach, Ray Eliot, electrified the Illini world. From far-off battle fields, alumni sent word of their delight in its record.

Second semester found many members of the coaching staff serving in the armed forces, but the remaining coaches shouldered additional burdens. It was impossible to continue gymnastics and fencing as varsity sports, but the start of the second semester found all the other sports in progress.

In everything, the purpose of the athletic department has been to do its part toward the fulfillment of the University pledge: to render every possible assistance in the winning of the war.

CONFERENCE MEDAL WINNER

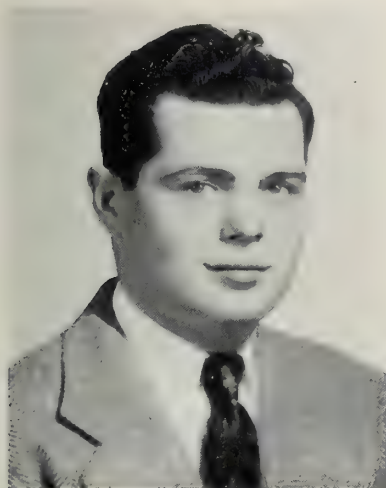

WILLIAM T. HOCKING
Conference Medal Winner

Aside from being elected captain of the basketball team and president of the Tribe of Illini, Bill Hocking received many other honors, among which were a Bachelor of Science degree in Accountancy, summa cum laude, the Dunlap-Harrington Memorial Scholarship, a position on Bronze Tablet, and a national scholarship to Harvard University Graduate School. It is not difficult, therefore, to understand why the Athletic Association chose Bill to receive the Conference Medal Award. The Award is given to the man who, in the eyes of the judges, is most outstanding in showing excellence in scholarship and varsity athletic participation.

Having attended high school in Braidwood, Illinois, where he was valedictorian of his class and outstanding in athletics, Bill continued to excel in these two fields of endeavor at the University. Aside from this, he made many friends and was very prominent in Sigma Chi Fraternity.

Bill is now attending the graduate school at Harvard University, prior to being commissioned into the United States Army.

ELMER H. ENGEL
Most Valuable Player

The man who was voted the most valuable player on the 1942 Illini football team, justly deserved the honor. This man was one of the mainstays of the fighting Illini, making spectacular tackles behind the opponents' lines, and racing down the field on punt formations. The player is Elmer Engel, end, from LaSalle-Peru. Elmer came to Illinois determined to play football. He won his numerals in his freshman year, and in the next three succeeding years won his varsity letter. Elmer is considered by his teammates and his coaches as one of the greatest ends in the country. The Big Ten Coaches gave him honorable mention on the All Conference Team. Elmer played for 231 consecutive minutes against Minnesota, Iowa, Notre Dame, and Michigan, finally yielding to replacement at Ann Arbor. Elmer is in the Physical Education School and will graduate in June.

CHEERLEADERS

The Illini Union Board, in conjunction with the Athletic Association, this year sponsored the pep rallies, cheerleaders and various subordinate activities. Mr. Nat Erwin was appointed the faculty advisor for the cheerleaders. Fred Moore and his team, Don Edwards, Lowell Roberts, and Bill Rychel, brought enthusiastic cheers from the crowds.

The Loyal Illini backed the Fighting Illini one hundred per cent. The student body marched to the railroad station to see the various athletic teams off to victory. On the home front they cheered through orange and blue megaphones with the volume of a cannon's roar.

As Student Hostess for the Athletic Association, Margie Bitzer extended our Illini hospitality to visiting teams and their guests.

FOOTBALL

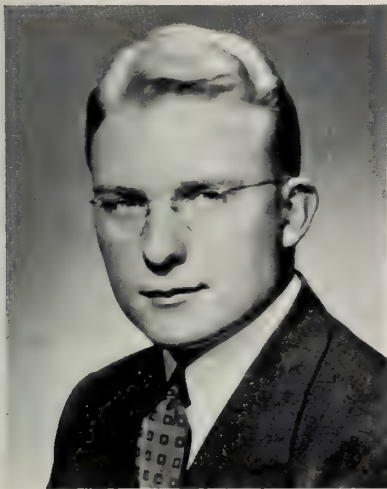

Scott Williams, a student in 1890, is said to be the originator of football at Illinois. He formed the first team that year with only one piece of equipment, a rule book. Members of the team bought their own equipment and paid for their transportation and lodging. The University did not recognize football at that time. The boys themselves scheduled impromptu games until 1891-92, when a regular thirteen game schedule was played. In 1895, the immortal Illini sports great, "G." Huff, became coach. In 1913, "G." appointed Robert C. Zuppke coach, directly from high school coaching ranks, an unheard of step at the time. Zup brought Illinois to the national limelight with the development of a number of championship teams, perhaps the most famous of which were the teams of the Red Grange era. Upon Zup's retirement in 1941, Ray Eliot became coach of the Fighting Illini, who in 1942 lived up to every letter of their fighting name.

ILLINOIS 46 SOUTH DAKOTA 0

The Illini opened the 1942 season with a 45-0 win over South Dakota to give their new coach, Ray Eliot, a grand sendoff. The Illini displayed their new talent in deceptive running and power. The score could have been much higher if the Illini had not had a bad case of butterfingers. Out of the sixteen fumbles in the game, the Orange and Blue committed ten of them, losing the ball six times.

After the seventh touchdown, Eliot sent the regulars to the showers and the second, third, and fourth stringers carried on through a scoreless fourth quarter.

Captain Jimmy Smith and Tony Butkovich accounted for two scores apiece. Dick Good raced for one and passed another to Correll, and Ray Florek scooted to the seventh and last after grabbing a lateral from Griffin within the ten yard line.

South Dakota was jolted severely on the eighth play of the game when their star triple-threat man, Russ Fecheter, was knocked unconscious. Without him the Coyotes were helpless, but could not have done much even with him to stop the Illini from running at will around the ends and through the light South Dakota line.

The fighting Illini, fresh from their 45-0 win over South Dakota, showed no mercy for Butler University when they rolled up the most points ever scored in Memorial Stadium, defeating Butler, 67-0.

Griffin and Dufelmeier scored five of the ten Illinois touchdowns, and Astroth, Butkovich, Good, McCarthy, and Mac Wenskunas accounted for the others.

Jimmy Smith teamed with Griffin to set up both first-quarter touchdowns, and on the first carried the ball from the 31 to the 6 where he lateraled to Griffin and gave Don the last block he needed.

From the opening kickoff, the Illini marched 74 yards on ten plays to score, and from here on the Illini had the situation well under control. The passing of Dick Good was exceptionally impressive, as was the running ability of Astroth, fourth stringer, who snaked-danced 23 yards to a touchdown in the third quarter.

ILLINOIS 20 MINNESOTA 13

The Illini could never have picked a more opportune time to whip the national champions, 20-13, than on Homecoming before 24,000 wild, hysterical fans. This victory once again, after many years, elevated the Orange and Blue from the depths of the national football cellar. This was the first conference win for Illinois since 1939 when they beat Chicago.

The star of the afternoon was Alex Agase who stole the ball from the famous Bill Daley and raced to a touchdown from the Minnesota 35, and also scored the winning touchdown in the fourth quarter when he recovered a bad pass from center behind the Gopher goal line.

The questionable Illini line was no longer questionable as it held the strongest backs in the country practically to a standstill. The only time the Gophers gained real yardage was when Daley raced 81 yards to a touchdown in the first quarter after the Illini had lost the ball on a fumble on the Minnesota eight.

Behind Agase in the hero's column came Ray Florek who did a superb job of line backing. Griffin, Good, and Butkovich deserve recognition for their excellent running and passing attack. The expert kicking of Buck Corrells' "educated toe" pulled the Illini out of many a hole.

The losing column was again cheated out of a game when the Illini kept their record clean of defeats by stopping a determined Iowa eleven in the closing minutes to win, 12-6. Alex Agase again was the hero when he blocked an Iowa punt to set up the first score in the first quarter. At the half, the Illini held the edge, 7-6.

In the closing minutes the famous Tommy Farmer passed the Hawkeyes to the Illini four, but a valiant and determined Illini eleven staved off the attack until the gun sounded. This was by far the most exciting part of the game, with Farmer completing pass after pass. At this juncture the Illini definitely received a break of the game, when the Hawkeyes were penalized back to the nine. Farmer then threw a lateral to Curran who was stopped short of the goal by a horde of Illini. The Illini then took the ball on downs and held it until the gun sounded.

The uncanny and deadly passing of Dick Good helped in defeating the Hawkeyes. He overshadowed Farmer in three of the four quarters. The second score came when Good passed to Smith in the end zone after Butkovich had rammed his way to the Hawkeye two yard line.

ILLINOIS 14 NOTRE DAME 21

On the afternoon of the 24th of October, 43,476 Dads and "T" men saw the Fighting Illini go down in defeat for the first time of the season under the onslaught of the Fighting Irish. The cause of the Illinois team was seriously weakened by the injury to Dick Good early in the game.

At the half, the Illini were leading 14-7, and they appeared to be on the road to victory. But in the second half the Irish tied the score, and in the fourth quarter drove seventy-five hard-fought yards to the winning touchdown. The Orange and Blue were not through yet, however, and the Notre Dame goal line was threatened twice more before the final gun. An Illini drive to the ten yard line was halted by three incomplete forward passes, and in the waning minutes another drive to the Irish twenty-seven ended with a pass interception.

The Irish, although victorious, were extended all the way, and the game was decided in a large part by the superior reserve strength of Notre Dame. The famous Bertelli was bottled up most of the time, and the Irish were forced to employ principally a running attack.

MICHIGAN AGAIN

ILLINOIS 14

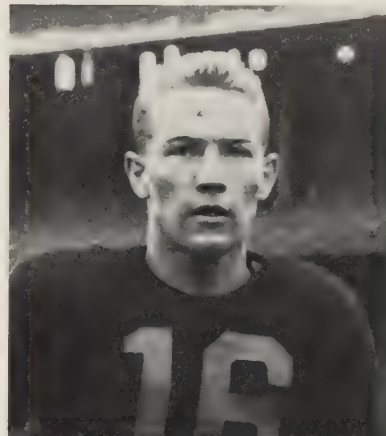

MICHIGAN 28

The fighting Illini saw their dreams of a Western Conference Championship fade into the distance on October 31 when they were defeated by a superior Michigan team, 28-14. The Orange and Blue missed badly the services of their expert passer, Dick Good, who was on the injured list from the Notre Dame game. Passing was one thing Michigan overlooked in their defense, and if Good had played, the score might have been different.

Michigan employed their passing technique to a great degree, using deceptive and delayed operations which faked the Illini out of position and left huge openings in the Illini defense which permitted the Wolverine backs to charge through standing up for 8 to 10 yards at each crack.

Both of the Illini touchdowns were scored on passes after they had discovered that their running attack was futile against the strong Michigan forward wall. One of the scores started on the Illini 25 yard line. The advance to the Michigan goal was marked by a fifteen yard pass by Dufelmeier to McCarthy and by some excellent running plays by Dufelmeier and Butkovich. When the Illini reached the 9 yard line, Dufelmeier tossed another pass to McCarthy for the touchdown.

ILLINOIS 14 NORTHWESTERN 7

Finally, after several years of subjection, the Illini were able to defeat their upstate rivals, Northwestern, 14-7. The Illini once again are in possession of the old Fire Bell, the token of the yearly duel. For a time in the second half, the Illini goal was threatened by the passes of Otto Graham, but the Orange and Blue banner was still flying high when the gun sounded. In the first half the Illini literally pushed the Wildcats all over the field.

The first touchdown came in the last fifty seconds of play in the first half when Griffin passed to McCarthy in the end zone. This score climaxed a brilliant running and passing attack of Dufelmeier and Smith.

At the beginning of the second half, Elmer Engel became a hero when he stole the ball from Vodick on his own forty-three, and raced unmolested for a touchdown. From here on, the game became a close struggle, displaying heated tempers and numerous penalties.

A BUCKEYE GOES THROUGH

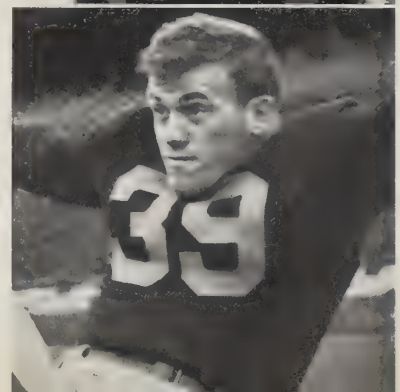

ILLINOIS 20 OHIO STATE 44

In the Municipal Stadium in Cleveland, more than 65,000 persons saw the title hopes of the Fighting Illini swept away under an avalanche of Buckeye speed. By the end of the first quarter, Ohio State had pushed the ball over the Illini goal three times. The Illini fought gallantly, but were never able to come within a touchdown of their opponents.

Even with the game hopelessly lost, the Illini fought on. With Dufelmeier and Griffin passing, and with Jimmy Smith putting in one of the greatest performances of his collegiate career, they scored a touchdown on a pass from Griffin to Gibbs in the end zone.

The second touchdown came on a lateral from Dufelmeier to Butkovich, who gave the ball to McCarthy coming around from his end position. McCarthy then tossed the ball to Sucic in the end zone for a score. The third and last touchdown for the Illini came in the fourth quarter when they drove down the field after an Ohio State kickoff.

ILLINOIS 0 GREAT LAKES 6

A highly rated Bluejacket team from Great Lakes held the Fighting Illini scoreless for the first time this season. In every other game the Orange and Blue have been able to score at least twice. For a long time this game appeared as though it would end in a scoreless tie. In the fourth quarter, however, the balanced power and reserve strength of the sailors enabled them to score, but not before the Illini ballhawks had broken up two threats by recovering the Bluejackets' fumbles.

The Illini likewise had several chances to score, but each time they were halted by a pass interception or a fumble. The deadly passing of Dick Good would undoubtedly have helped the Illini cause a great deal. The sailors had a tremendous weight advantage which enabled them to wear down the Orange and Blue line and stop their running attack. The star of the afternoon was Minnesota's Bruce Smith who ran and passed many yards for the Bluejackets.

ILLINOIS 20 CAMP GRANT 0

On the afternoon of November 28, the Fighting Illini closed their winningest season since 1930 by defeating easily the soldier boys from Camp Grant, 20-0. The Illini jumped off to an early lead in the first period when they pushed over two touchdowns. Griffin scored the first Illini touchdown on a sweep of 34 yards around right end six minutes after the opening kickoff. Less than five minutes later, Butkovich took a pass from Griffin on the Camp Grant sixteen, and raced to a touchdown. The third score came in the third quarter on an eight yard dash around end by Griffin.

The Orange and Blue would have rolled up a much larger score if Camp Grant had not had a strong aerial offensive which kept the ball in their possession for a good portion of the time.

This was the last game for eight Illini seniors—Captain Smith, Engel, Pawlowski, McCarthy, Pfeifer, Gibbs, Wallin, and Palmer.

BASKETBALL

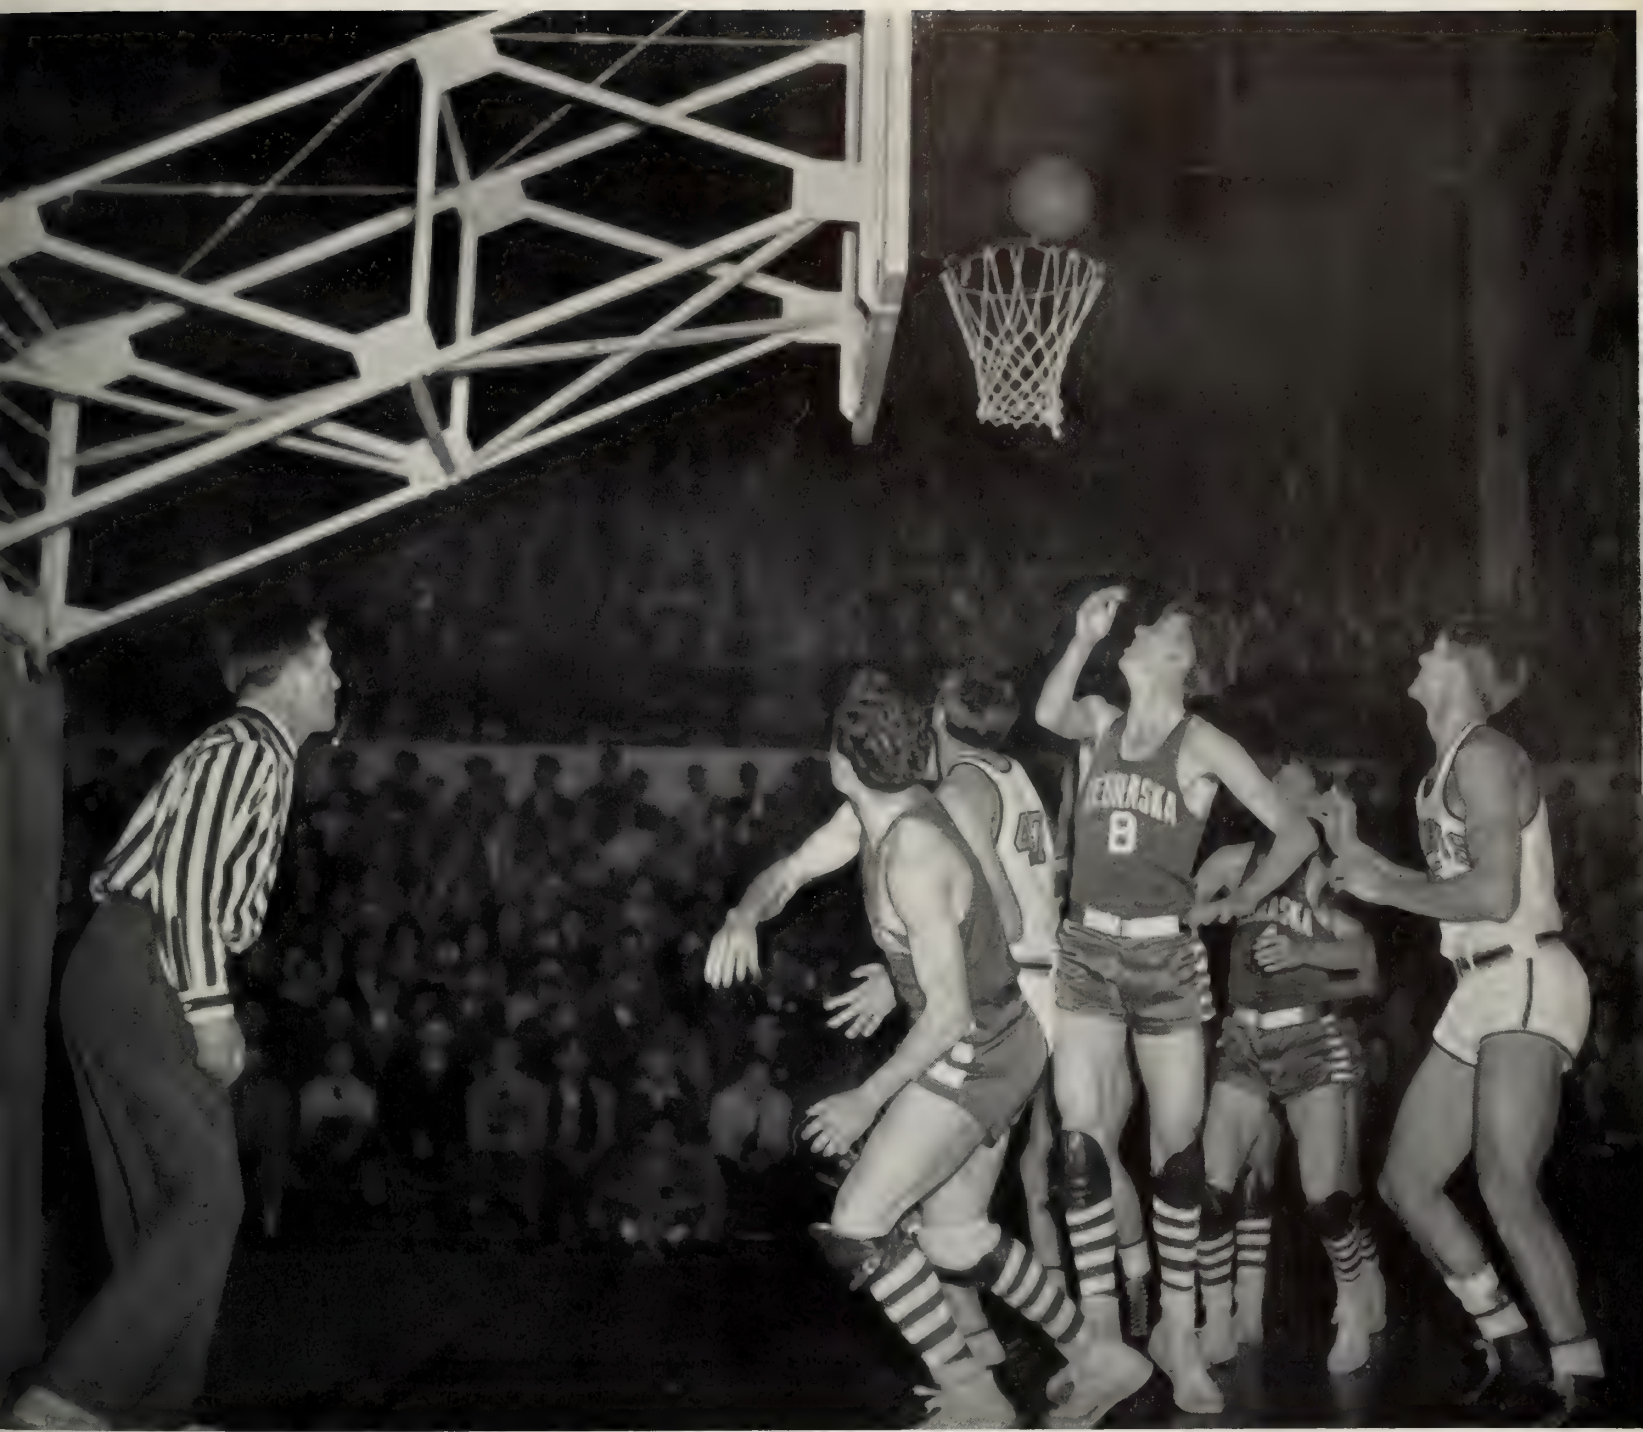

The records show that the sport of basketball was introduced into the athletic program of the University of Illinois in 1905. A demand for basketball as a part of the University's sports program arose because of the interest displayed by students who played pick-up games in the Men's Gymnasium (now the Old Gym).

In 1906, intercollegiate competition was inaugurated. The first year of the sport was marked by capacity crowds, who were seated in chairs underneath the balcony track. The Illini won their first game but finished fourth in a conference of five teams.

In 1915, three years after Ralph Jones became coach, Illinois won its first unshared conference championship. Frank Winters succeeded Ralph Jones in 1921, and was succeeded by Craig Ruby in 1923. Illinois was co-titleholder of the conference championship in 1917, 1924, and 1935.

In 1937, Douglas R. Mills became head coach, and Illinois again won the conference championship. In 1942, Illinois won its first unshared title since 1915.

WHIZ!

The high place of the 1942-43 basketball team in basketball history is assured.

The exploits of the "Whiz Kids" will become legendary.

The record-books will preserve the record of their brilliant achievements, with two spectacular climaxes. One, a victory by a record-breaking score over Northwestern in the Chicago stadium before nearly 20,000 persons, said to be the largest crowd ever to see an inter-collegiate basketball game. The other, the last conference game, against Chicago in George Huff gymnasium, when Illinois won its 12th Big Ten game and the championship, and surpassed numerous all-time team and individual records.

The books, however, will not tell what fine personalities they were—sportsman-like, modest, team players whose behavior off the floor was as fine as their performances on it. It was a pleasure to coach them. It was of the greatest value to have the scouting and coaching assistance of Wallie Roettger.

Only Captain Mathisen is a senior. The others have another season of competition but as this is written they await their call to duty. Their hope is to return to play again. Speed that day!

more was Ollie Shoaff. If these were normal times, Illinois could look forward and foresee a literally undefeatable cage squad for next year.

Although the Whiz Kids started rather slowly by defeating a mediocre Detroit squad, 38-25, they soon gained momentum and overwhelmed Missouri, 51-30. Then, they defeated Nebraska in fire-wagon fashion by jumping off to a 17-2 lead in ten minutes of play and finally trounced them, 69-27. During the Christmas holidays the Illini traveled to Chicago to oppose one of the greatest service teams in the nation. By rallying for nine points in the last four minutes, the Whiz Kids eked a 57-53 victory from Great Lakes Naval Station. The Illinois cagers then moved to Rockford only to be dealt their first defeat of the season at the hands of the star-studded Camp Grant team, 41-31.

Starting the New Year right, the Illini downed Stanford, last year's N.C.A.A. champion, by a score of 38-26 after holding the champions to six points during the first half. Michigan fell before the powerful offensive of Illinois to the tune of 47-34. Although the Whiz Kids built a twenty-six point margin in the first half, the Wolverines came back in the second half and cut the lead to eleven points, but they could come no closer to victory than within ten points. The second Big Ten game was with Wisconsin, and it was expected to be one of the toughest of the season because Ken Menke was on the sidelines with a sprained ankle, and because the Illini were faced with keeping last year's scoring champ, Johnny Kotz, from resuming his torrid scoring pace. However, Jack Smiley performed a flawless job of holding Kotz while Handy Andy Phillip dumped in twenty-six points for the Whiz Kids. In defeating Wisconsin, 52-40, the Illini gave one of their best performances of the season.

Returning home for a two-game series with Iowa, the Whiz Kids found little trouble with the Hawkeyes in defeating them, 61-41, and 66-34. In the second encounter Phillip shot hot for twenty-six points. Between semesters Illinois entertained Northwestern and stopped Otto Graham and company by the score, 68-51. The Illini then took to the road and met Ohio State in a double engagement. In the first encounter, Illinois eased away from the Bucks in the second half to win, 60-48. Although the 50-44 victory in the second game did not seem too impressive, the Whiz Kids were never in any danger of losing the lead after the first half.

On the following week-end the Whiz Kids travelled to Minnesota to meet and defeat the mighty Gophers twice, 56-35 and 67-43. In the first encounter the Gophers were able to keep up with the Illini, but from the beginning of the second half to the end, it was the Orange and Blue all the way. In the second encounter the Whiz Kids overwhelmed the Gophers with Andy Phillips' assistance of another twenty-six points.

With only three games left to be played, the Illini appear to be headed for their second Big Ten Championship. Indiana is the only other contender for the crown, but it has met a defeat at the hands of Wisconsin. The most unfortunate part of the entire schedule was that the two strong teams, Illinois and Indiana, were unable to meet to determine the real champion of the Big Ten Conference.

TRACK

Ever since the Illinois Industrial University was established in 1867, there has been some type of track contest, either intramural or intercollegiate, for the students.

Early records show that there was a Field Day in 1883, held in conjunction with the State Oratorical Contest. In 1888, the first intercollegiate meet was planned, but because of rain this meet was postponed until the following year, at which time Illinois was victorious.

The Illini received an invitation in 1893 to participate in the Western Athletic Championship Invitation Track Meet at Washington University in St. Louis. In the same year, the Illini also held their first indoor track meet.

For many years, Harry Gill coached the Illinois team. The 1924 team achieved international fame at the Olympic Games because its personnel won more points than did the contestants from any other university. Mr. Gill retired in 1933 and was succeeded by Don Seaton who was in turn succeeded by the present coach, Leo Johnson.

TIMBER TOPPERS

The 1942 outdoor track team had some of the finest performers in collegiate competition: Bob Kelley in the 440 and 880; Bob Rehberg, who had the splendid marks of :49 in the 440, 1:51.8 in the 880 and 4:18 in the mile; Robert Seib in the mile; Clarence Dunn in the two mile; Maurice Gould in the broad jump and Don Olsen in the hurdles. Robert Seib, Clarence Dunn, Robert Rehberg and Don Gladding, made up the finest four-mile relay team in the country, winning at the Butler Relays against two of the strongest teams of the nation, Indiana and Notre Dame.

The two-mile team made up of Bob Rehberg, Bob Kelley, Bob Seib, and Clarence Dunn won the feature two-mile relay at the Chicago Relays, establishing a new meet record.

The 1942 track team finished second in both the indoor and outdoor conference meets. The absence of an outstanding sprinter kept this team from being one of the strongest in Illinois history.

Due to graduation and enlistments in the armed services, the 1943 track team will be minus many of the outstanding performers. However, this team will have strength in the distance and middle distance runs with the return of Kelley, Seib, Dunn and Gladding. Matter's all around ability will compensate for some of the losses of 1942. Warren Goodell, a promising freshman, will be counted on in the 880. Crane and Abbott will be the only returning hurdlers. Captain Mail will carry the weight of shot put alone.

Coach Leo T. Johnson produced another successful outdoor track team in 1942 which defeated three other Big Ten teams in a quadrangular meet, crushed Purdue in a dual meet, and lost only to Michigan. As a climax to the team's winning season, the Illini tied with Indiana for second in the Big Ten Outdoor Conference Meet.

Opening the outdoor season on April 18 with a win over Purdue, Iowa, and Northwestern, the Illini proved themselves to be one of the strongest teams of the Big Ten. With this surprising cinder squad scoring 62½

On May 3, the Orange and Blue lost their first meet of the year to Michigan. Although the Illini won eight of thirteen firsts, they lost out in the end, $64\frac{1}{3}$ to $52\frac{2}{3}$, because they lacked the balanced team that the Wolverines possessed. Don Olsen and Bob Rehberg again paced the Illini with several firsts.

The Illini crushed their last opponent, Purdue, $96\frac{1}{2}$ to $25\frac{1}{2}$, and broke three meet records in this same afternoon. Bill Lewis added a quarter of an inch to the broad jump record of $23' 8\frac{1}{4}"$; Don Olsen cut the low hurdles time to :23.4; and Bob Rehberg broke the 880 record with 1:55.9.

With a tie for second in the Big Ten Conference Meet, the Illini brought their season to a close. The outstanding Illini in this meet were Rehberg, who placed third in the 440 and second in the 880, Maurice Gould, who placed second in the broad jump, Chuck Edwards and Bob Stark, who tied for second in the high jump, and Clarence Dunn, who placed second in the two-mile sprint.

Ten Track Team which defeated the Pacific Coast All-stars. In this meet in California, Rehberg won the 880 with a timing of 1:54.2 minutes. Dunn placed second in the two-mile.

Although the loss of Rehberg to the Service, and Olsen by graduation might seem to weaken the power of the Illini indoor squad, the tracksters swung into full action and won overwhelming victories in their first two campaigns. The Illini opened the season on February 6 with the winning of a triangular meet with Minnesota and Chicago.

By overwhelming their opponents with 88 points as compared with the Gophers 20½, and the Maroons 18½, the mighty Illini placed first in every event of the day. The lad who is mainly responsible for the victory was Herb Matter who made a total of 28 points by winning firsts in the pole-vault, 60-yard dash, broad jump, and winning a close second in the 70-yard low-hurdles. Two other first place winners were Dunn and Kelley who won two firsts each.

On the following week-end the squad traveled to Bloomington, Indiana, where they rolled over the University of Indiana in a dual meet, 66 to 38. The main-spring of the Illini offensive was again Herb Matter, who captured five firsts for a total of 24 points. Bob Kelley also triumphed in the 440 and 880 as he did the week before.

On February 20, the unbeaten Illini traveled to Michigan State where they suffered their first defeat, 62-42. Although seven records were broken, the Illini had little to do with them and their performance was far from the standard displayed in previous meets.

This far in the season, the Illini look very promising and will undoubtedly give any of the Big Ten teams stiff competition in the battle for the Big Ten Indoor Conference Meet championship. The main-spring of the squad in the 1942 indoor season has been versatile Herb Matter, who has won firsts in the broad jump, high jump, pole vault, and the 60-yard dash.

BASEBALL

Nobody knows how many years ago the first baseball game was played here at Illinois, but the first recorded game was in 1875 when a picked team of upperclassmen played the freshmen. The early games were played on the old fairground bounded by First, Fourth, and John Streets, and Armory Avenue. No games were played away from the University until 1878, when one game was played at Danville, Illinois.

In 1878 Illinois Industrial University played their first intercollegiate contest against Illinois College. C. N. Sheffield was the manager and captain, and is often called the "father of Illinois baseball."

Illinois joined a baseball association in 1880, and also moved the playing field from the fairground to a pasture in the rear of the University. It was not uncommon for the players to request the authorities to keep the cows off the field.

In 1891 Illinois was elected to the Western College League and later to the Big Five Conference, the predecessor of the Big Ten. Through the years Illinois has gained prestige on the baseball field through their winning of many championships.

VARSITY BASEBALL

The fortunes of the 1942 baseball team varied greatly. The team was off to a good start; however, hitting difficulties were encountered in the later games. The inability to make our hits count cost us several closely contested games and eventually a season record below our usual standard.

The season's play was featured by the excellent defensive work of the team. The infield particularly gave a fine account of itself. Schiller and Campbell contributed some outstanding pitching performances.

The players deserve commendation for the fine team spirit which they displayed under Captain Astroth and for the all-out effort which they put forth in every game.

VARSITY

In the season's opener at St. Louis against the Jefferson Barrack's Recreational Center, the 1942 University of Illinois baseball squad went down to defeat before a group of former major and minor league ball players. The victors crossed the plate four times in the fifth inning, driving Chuck Campbell, starting Illini hurler, from the box, to roll up their victory margin of 9 to 5. Illinois' biggest outburst, a three-run splurge in the seventh, fell far short. The following day the Illini crushed the Coast team of Jefferson Barracks, 15 to 6, blasting three pitchers for eleven hits, to mark up its first win of the season. Paul Milosevich, catcher, and Andy Phillip, center-fielder, led the Illinois attack. Milosevich hit two long home runs in his first two trips to the plate, and was passed in his two subsequent appearances. Phillip collected a single, a double, and a triple in four times at bat.

BASEBALL

The Western conference season opened on April 10 with a double-header against Indiana, which ended with a twin victory for the Illini. The first win, 7-5, was due to the steady hurling of Chuck Campbell who stopped the Hoosiers with seven hits. He issued but three bases on balls, fanned eight batters, and set the side down in 1-2-3 order in four of the nine innings. The second game boosted the Orange and Blue into a tie with Iowa for the conference lead. Chuck Schiller, backed in the field by a flawless Illini defense, pitched the team to a 13 to 0 victory. The Illinois infield turned in three double plays to retire the side after Indiana had worked into a scoring position.

The battle with Bradley on April 14 proved to be unsuccessful and ended in a 4 to 0 shut out. Illinois' long-range hitting was silenced by Dick Haack, who permitted only four hits in the entire game.

April 17 found the Illini in Lafayette participating in a wild and woolly contest, losing to Purdue, 6-2. The next day the Illini won over Purdue for its third conference win in four starts. Chuck Schiller held the opponents for eight straight innings, then he ran into trouble. The bases were loaded on two errors and a base on balls, then Duffy Friend singled to send in two runs. At that point Chuck Campbell relieved Schiller and set the next three Purdue batters down in order, making the final score, 10-6.

Following Purdue, the Illini engaged Chanute Field. The Planesmen boasted of twelve ex-pro players, but under the skilled pitching of Roth, Campbell, and Schiller, the Orange and Blue wave smothered the soldiers in the three game series.

Traveling to Chicago, the Illini took both ends of a twin bill. In the night cap lanky Chuck Schiller filed his name into athletic annals as the third pitcher in the history of the University of Illinois to pitch a no-hit, no-run game by downing the Maroons, 6 to 0.

The out-of-town trips to Madison and Columbus proved less fortunate, losing to Wisconsin 6-3 and 3-2, and Ohio State 2-1 and 8-5.

In a pair of final games with Michigan, Illinois was nipped twice by a score of 3-0 and 3-1. The Illini out hit the Wolverines 7-6, but the Illinois blows were scattered over the nine innings. This twin bill ended the season for the Illini.

OTHER VARSITY SPORTS

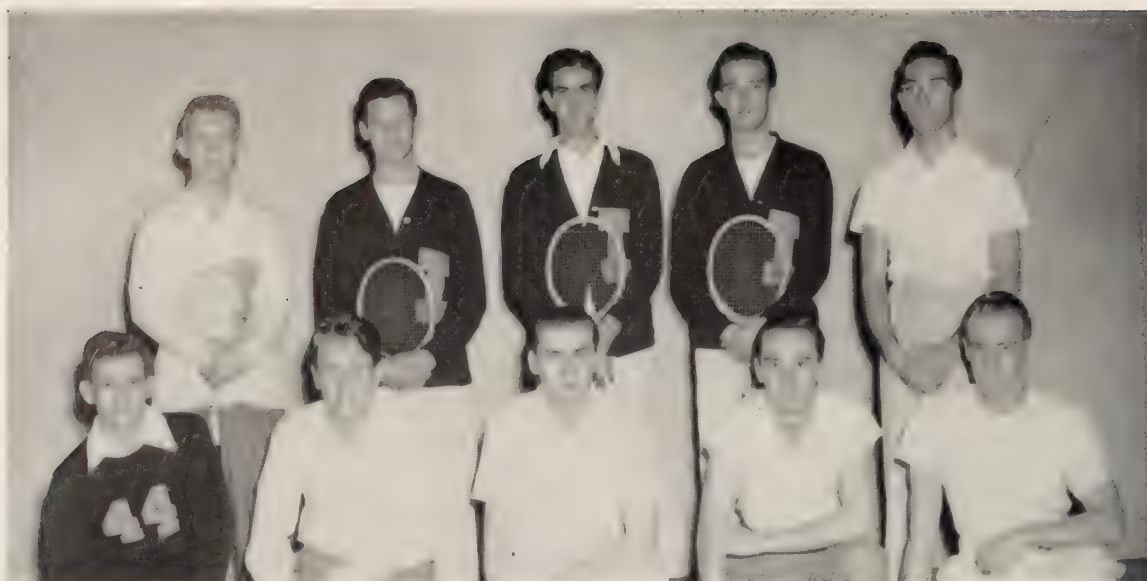

Although baseball, track, football, and later basketball were the favored varsity sports, during the first decade of the new century other sports found adherents. At first their road was stony, but as time went on their importance increased, and since 1928 their participants have received the regulation size varsity letters.

The vitality of these sports was demonstrated during the business depression beginning in 1930 when the Athletic Association was unable to finance them. The athletes themselves managed to keep their sports going until happier days dawned.

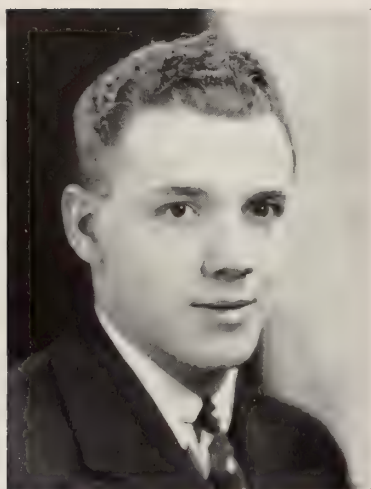

All of the sports can boast excellent records. There have been many Big Ten championships, and in gymnastics these championships have often been national. Their dates of establishment as varsity sports began with swimming in 1906. Most of them were officially recognized in the years from 1910 to 1915. Hockey is the newest, having started in 1938.

VARSITY TENNIS

The combination of three returning lettermen and three former freshman squad members elevated to the varsity, permitted the varsity tennis team of 1941-42 to enjoy a very successful season, winning seven out of eleven matches. At the end of the schedule, the boys attended the Big Ten Championship Meet where they garnered a fourth place. The boys responsible for the points that placed Illinois this far up in the standings were Jim Lothrop and Cliff Pilz, both of whom advanced to the finals of their respective singles divisions, and Ken Clapper and Cliff Pilz, who were able to reach the finals in the doubles division.

A great blow to the team is the loss of their respected Coach Howie Braun, who entered the services last summer. May good luck and success follow both Coach Braun and the tennis team as it has in the past.

The 1943 Illinois swimming team, struggling under a terrific burden imposed by ineligibility and the call to arms, proved to be one of the smallest and most courageous teams ever coached by Ed Manley in his thirty-one years at Illinois. Having no divers, Illinois fell to Northwestern in their first meet by the point margin which they forfeited in this event. Undaunted, they fought from far behind to defeat Purdue, 43 to 41, by winning the last race. Led by unbeatable Captain Bill Brekke and the other three seniors, Jim Brown, Jim Roach, and Dick Gill, and bolstered by Meeland, Kerr, Gruenfeld, Seidler, Del Vento, and Sadewater, the team should make a good showing against its remaining opponents—Illinois Wesleyan, Chicago, and Michigan State—before entering the conference meet.

VARSITY GOLF

Although the 1942 golf team relinquished the Big Ten championship to Michigan, a few of the team members made outstanding achievements. The spotlight falls upon Jim McCarthy, who captured first place in the Big Ten Tournament. McCarthy, almost unheard of in golf outside of Illinois, came through the tournament to take first place while another favorite Illini, Johnny Holmstrom, placed fourth. However, a first and fourth was not enough to win the great event, and Illinois finished the tournament in fifth place.

The Illini golf team started the season with five consecutive wins, but after tying Minnesota the team could not tally with a victory during the rest of the season.

Coach Vic Heyliger's "Friday's Children" opened their season with a loss to the Chicago Hornets, 5-3. With only one spare, the Illini soon grew weary from the professionals' onslaught and could not muster a rally. Because of ineligibilities, injuries, and losses to the services, the hockey team had to postpone its match with Minnesota until after the semester exams. When they did meet, the Illini split the two-game series, 1-2 and 2-1. On the following week-end the squad beat Michigan State, 4-2 and 3-1. The squad then lost another man to the air forces, and the plight of the squad in future matches seemed to rest on the fact that if one of the six remaining squad members were lost, the team would have to cancel the remaining matches of the season.

The war year 1942 saw the prospects of the Illinois wrestling team vanish into the armed forces. Finally, after the Big Ten had sanctioned wrestling competition among the conference schools, the Illini opened their schedule with a decisive win over Northwestern, 32-0. However, before the wrestlers held another meet, they lost their guiding hand, "Hek" Kenney, to the Navy. He was replaced by Newt Law, who led the squad to an overwhelming victory over Michigan, 23-5. The Illini received their first real test when they met Purdue, winner of last year's conference championship, and the Illini proved their strength by winning this match, 16-14.

On October 31, the squad won second in the Loyola Invitational Meet, and the cross-country men won second in the Conference Meet on November 16. In closing the season on November 21, the Illini placed fifth in the N.C.A.A. Meet at Lansing, Michigan. Dunn, Seib, Gladding, Campbell, and Wood were the team's reliables. Other harriers were Bowditch, Judy, Orlebeke, and Sullivan. A blow that affected the strength of the squad was the loss of Rehberg to the service and Walshon because of ineligibility.

INTRAMURALS

Interclass competition in all sports—that was the forerunner of the present widely-used intramural system, which was perfected here at Illinois.

Highlights of the early 1900's were the annual Senior-Faculty football games in which David Kinley, later the president of the University of Illinois, customarily played quarterback for the faculty.

Field Days included such features as the knapsack race and the three-legged race, for which cups were given. Annual intramural carnivals were the occasion for championship matches in all sports. Touches of humor were added by races among the women entrants, each handicapped by holding a pig on a leash.

During World War I the Intramurals took on a new aspect of importance. There were intercompany meets among the men in uniform. Each company had its athletic officer, and the games between the sixteen football teams never lacked spectators.

Now with wartime demands for physical fitness, the Intramurals are again assuming a role of great importance.

Shortly after classes began in the fall, the intramural program, under the capable direction of Max J. Chapman, senior manager Jack Boggs, and junior managers Dan Anderson, Howard Bailie, and Bob Mueller, started its 1942-43 year, accelerated because of wartime needs.

The usual wide variety of sports, including softball, tennis, golf, track, soccer, bowling, water-polo, volleyball, pingpong, swimming, wrestling, badminton, and horseshoes was offered. This wide variety facilitated practically every man's participation in at least one sport.

Intramural competition was divided into two parts: one for independent participation, and one for Greek participation. A division of the campus into wards, and a further subdivision into zones, facilitated independent organization for team participation.

CAMPUS LEADERS

Each of the seventy-five fruitful years in the history of our campus has born a select group of capable, diligent, and untiring young men and women. These, our campus leaders, have made it possible for the activities, the scholastics, and the honoraries of the University of Illinois to become among the most outstanding in American colleges. These students, only a part of whom are pictured on the following pages, have intelligently supervised campus periodicals, athletics, entertainment, and the government of the student body. They have provided the guidance and inspiration for the undergraduates. In return for their hard work, activities have given them valuable contacts and closer understanding with fellow students and with faculty, and have brought spirit and service to the University.

“What you choose daily from the vast storehouse of riches and knowledge offered by the University of Illinois, this will you eventually become.”

STUDENT ADMINISTRATION

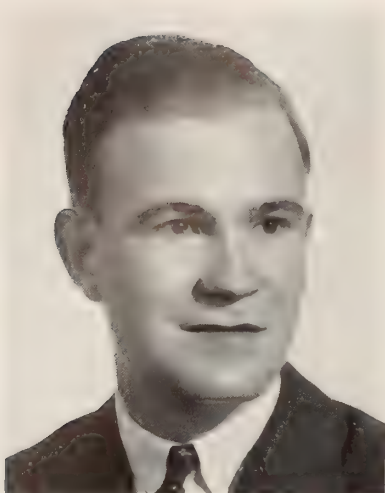

Dr. John Milton Gregory, first regent of the University, helped inaugurate student government into American colleges with his system known as College Government, founded at Illinois in 1870. Following the pattern of our federal system, the Government had a President, Senate, Assembly, Supreme Court, Sheriff, and Prosecuting Officer.

The four "precincts" of the campus were policed by men appointed by a marshal, and misdemeanors were punished by small fines. Anyone caught in possession of liquor, or seen entering a saloon, billiard hall, or bowling alley was fined from one to five dollars. Those damaging University property might be fined twenty-five dollars—a considerable sum in days when board for a week could be had for seventy-five cents.

After nearly forty years of student government, which met with varying success, the Illinois Union took over all student affairs in 1909. The Illini Union Building, completed in 1941 as a center of democratic student government, is the culmination of the hopes and dreams of the early administrators.

STUDENT AFFAIRS AUDIT AND SUPERVISION COMMITTEE

The Student Affairs Audit and Supervision Committee is a sub-committee of the Committee on Student Affairs composed of students and faculty who act as the supervising body for all functions approved by the Committee on Student Affairs. It is composed of five students chosen by the Student Senate, three faculty members chosen by the Committee on Student Affairs, and a member of the Dean of Men's staff. Programs, decorations, budgets, special activities, and all other phases of student managed events are left in the hands of individual committee members with the Auditing Committee retaining final control. The committee supervises the printing, issuing, collecting, and auditing of tickets and programs. Before final steps can be made by individual committees, approval of date, place, and budget of the proposed event must be secured from this committee.

Funds of the committee this year have been placed in the President's Fund to be used for the Illini boys in service. In order to facilitate future work of the committee, extensive records are being prepared and maintained this year. Copies of each dance program, photographs of decorations, written suggestions of chairmen, and complete financial reports are kept on file for easy reference.

The new Illini Union Board and this committee have co-operated to utilize all the facilities of the Union Building to the best interests of the students. The University Dance Committee of last year struck a new mark in keeping ticket prices in the lower levels so that a maximum number of students might enjoy the social events that have come under its jurisdiction and this policy is being continued.

History of the Illini Union Building and the Illini Union Board

The Illini Union Building of the University of Illinois was opened on February 8, 1941, and dedicated on November 1, 1941, culminating the efforts of students, alumni, and faculty for the past thirty years. The Union, in which each student has an equal share, is conceived in accordance with the best and finest traditions of early American Colonial architecture, inspiring those who use it with an appreciation of beautiful craftsmanship and dignified surroundings. And in accordance with the finest traditions of our nation, it symbolizes the democratic spirit of a great University. It is a place also where students, faculty, and alumni may meet each other socially and informally, and thereby promote the best in Illini traditions of loyalty to their University and to each other. It is dedicated not only to service, but also to real inspiration for better living and a finer University.

In order that students may learn to live effectively and abundantly, contributing a maximum of service to a genuinely democratic society, the Union evolved a broadly conceived educational program of extra-curricular and other activities of a social and cultural nature. The need for better coordination of student activities was emphasized by the war, which made it imperative that the student body centralize its energies for greatest effectiveness in the war effort.

The nucleus for the new program of coordinated Illini Union activities was the Illini Union Board. The original Illini Union Board had been instituted by President A. C. Willard in July, 1938, during the construction of the Illini Union, to advise on the policies which should be carried out when the building opened. In July, 1941, this board was succeeded by a second board appointed by the Trustees to direct student activities within the Union building.

The exigencies of war revealed duplication and competition in the functions of the general campus activities. Therefore, in the interests of greater efficiency, the Committee on Student Affairs revoked recognition of all student organizations, including Men's League, Woman's League, the Student Alumni Association, and the existing Illini Union, and coordinated war activities, cultural and social functions, traditional days, and student services under a new Illini Union Board. Some organizations which proved their value to the campus were restored with modifications.

The new Illini Union Board, organized in August,

1942, is composed of nine students, three faculty members, one representative of the Alumni Association, the Manager of the Illini Union Building, and the Social Director of the Union. The Committee on Student Affairs chose the student members of the Board for this first year in order to provide a starting point. Five student members of succeeding Illini Union Boards are to be chosen by the retiring Board, which elects no more than three men and no fewer than two women; one man and one woman may be Juniors and the rest are Seniors. The Dean of Men's Council chooses one fraternity man and one independent man; and the Dean of Women's Council chooses one independent woman and one sorority woman.

The Board works under the direction and regulations of the Committee on Student Affairs in so far as the work of the Board deals with student activities. It acts in an advisory capacity to the Manager of the Union Building and to the Business Office in so far as the physical operations of the Illini Union Building are concerned. It is responsible for directing a program of social activities for Faculty and Alumni in the Union Building.

The Illini Union Student Activities Division is directed by a board made up of the nine students and two of the faculty members on the Illini Union Board, the manager and the social director of the Union Building, and an executive secretary. Under the reorganization of student activities put into effect this year by action of the Board of Trustees of the University, this Board is responsible for activities formerly carried on by Men's League, Women's League, Student Alumni Association, and the old Illini Union Board.

The Men's and Women's Leagues were service organizations representing all male and female students at the University of Illinois. The object of these two organizations was to promote school spirit and loyalty, direct general activities, and advance the interests and general welfare of the students. This object was attained by pep meetings, Homecoming, Dad's Day, Mother's Day, Men's League Show, Women's League Show, University Sings, guide service, and other events and services needed at the University.

The Student Alumni Association was founded to promote the welfare of the University by forming a bond between the university students and the alumni. This organization sponsored the Homecoming and Registration Dances, Founder's Day, an All-University Welcome at the beginning of the year, a travel bureau and a war service record. It also distributed Illios to high schools throughout the states and organized Student Illini Clubs for larger communities in Illinois.

The old Illini Union Board was responsible for the direction of activities in the Illini Union Building. It sponsored Music Hours in the General Lounge, weekly student-faculty coffee hours in the Pine Lounge, dances in the Ballroom every Saturday night, social forums, and miscellaneous activities in the building throughout the year.

The added stress upon student activity caused in early 1942 by the war brought to light a large amount of overlapping and duplication and certain superfluous activities in these four organizations. The need for a centralized control for student war efforts also developed. After revoking recognition of all campus activities, the Committee on Student Affairs submitted a plan for a new Illini Union Board to the Board of Trustees of the University. This plan, which amalgamated the four organizations mentioned, was passed by the Board and was put into effect in September of 1942.

Under this plan the work of the Illini Union Board is carried on by the divisions of the Faculty Activities, Alumni Activities, and Student Activities. The Division of Student Activities is headed by the Illini Union Student Activities Board. This Board elects from its student members directors for the five departments under which the activities are conducted. The departments are Entertainment, Recreation, War Service, Public Service, and Special Affairs. The work of the departments, shown on the following pages, is carried out through about thirty major committees, the chairmen of which meet together as the Illini Union Council.

The great accomplishments of the Illini Union Student Activities Division during this first year of its existence have indicated tremendous potentialities of the unified program of extra-curricular activities at the University of Illinois.

On Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons in the Commons of the Union Building, coke dances are held for the benefit of those students who wish to relax between or after classes. On Thursday evenings beginning dancing lessons are offered to the students free of charge. Approximately, one hundred fifty persons attend regularly.

On Saturday nights the beautiful Union Ballroom is open for those well-liked and well-attended Saturday night dances, with music by the favorite campus orchestras.

And lastly, sprinkled throughout the semester, are the big dances in Huff Gym: the Homecoming and Registration Dances, the War Chest Dance, and the Turkey Trot.

in the Wedgewood Lounge from four until five.

At the music hour both classical and semi-classical recordings are played and announced by a student. Daily the programs are from 12:15 to 12:45, 4:15 to 5:30 and from 6:45 to 8:00 P.M. On Saturday and Sunday there are longer programs in the afternoons and evenings. Frequently there are radio programs of the football game on a Saturday afternoon, or the speech by President Roosevelt.

One of the important tournaments of the year is the bridge tournament. Every Tuesday evening, a group of students play. Other tournaments are in ping-pong, bowling, chess, and checkers.

The Solicitations and Salvage Committee sponsored scrap drives and collected fats.

War stamps and bonds and war stamp corsages were sold throughout the year by the Patriotic Programs and Information Committee. The Committee on Recreation for the Navy Schools cooperated with campus organizations in sponsoring teas in the Union Building, and with Illini Union and Athletic Association officials in making it possible for the Navy men to use gym and Union facilities at various times throughout the year.

On Dad's Day visiting Dads wore tags of recognition and were honored at a reception held in the Illini Union Building. Mother's Day, traditionally held in May, includes a May Day celebration, and a reception for the Mothers. The committee plans a very colorful May Day Pageant on the Quadrangle. Founder's Day, on March 1, commemorated the seventy-fifth anniversary of the founding of the University.

The All-University Sings were held at intervals throughout the year. The Pep Rallies, held before each game, helped to create a new Illini Spirit. It reached its peak when students attended a send-off at 4:30 A.M. for the football team.

The Illini Union Show was presented on two consecutive week-ends in February. This year the show, "Nothing Ventured," showed what would happen if "Benito, Hitler, and Hirohito" came to the University of Illinois.

The Young Men's Christian Association in 1943 celebrates the seventieth anniversary of its founding at the University of Illinois. At the present time, more than 700 students and faculty men are affiliated with it by membership.

Through forums, study and interest groups, service projects, socials, personal counselling, inspirational meetings, and in many other ways, the "Y" seeks to reach every student, directly or indirectly, whether he is a member of the organization or not. Important among its activities have the freshman camps, conducted prior to registration for the purpose of orienting new students to University life.

The splendid building at Wright and Chalmers streets contains comfortable and inviting lounges, reading and game rooms. The building is a popular center of student life, and its facilities are used by campus groups and by those community organizations related to campus life.

Throughout its history the "Y" has been busy "arming young men with ideals", not only for their student days but for the years ahead. As it celebrates its seventieth birthday, the Association looks forward to the opportunities it will have to serve new generations of Illini students as they come to the campus.

The alumni of a university have a very important part in keeping up the institution's prestige and its standing through their daily contacts with graduates. Realizing this, our alumni have maintained the Alumni Association since 1873. This organization keeps the alumni and former students of the University informed both upon student activities and the University functions and upon the activities of their former classmates by circulating the Association's publication, "Illinois Alumni News."

In the Association's offices in the Illini Union Building, stenographers and clerks keep up-to-date files listing nearly every alumnus or former student of the University by which alumni may locate classmates and old friends and by which organizations may circulate schedules and folders.

Recently the Illini Center in the La Salle Hotel, Chicago, has been opened for the sixteen thousand former students in the Chicago area and for all Illini service men.

In her high-waisted dress, bustle, and button shoes, prim and correct, sat the first woman student of the University of Illinois on March 3, 1870. Although, on that day, she was unfamiliar with college life, it did not take her long to adjust herself socially, to equal the men scholastically, and to make a place for herself in activities.

As early as 1873, women were added to the administration and the faculty and have since wisely instructed and guided the young women on the campus. Down through the years, Illini women have left milestones marking the founding of leading organizations—Y.W.C.A. . . . W.A.A. . . . Mortar Board (then Phi Delta Psi) . . . Pan-Hellenic . . . W.G.S. . . . Alpha Lambda Delta . . . Torch . . . Shi-Ai.

The Young Women's Christian Association is a laboratory for practical religious living. Through its program, young women students can clarify and learn to apply their faith in God and in the ideals of the democratic way of life that accompanies this faith in our country. "Y" members formulate their ideals in discussion groups, and then apply them in their work in the organization and in their daily lives. Vespers are held every Thursday to help bring religion closer to the students.

Through public affairs discussion groups, work with community social agencies, and leadership of Girls'

Club programs in the public schools, girls in the "Y" get practical experience in the solution of some of the important social and economic problems of the day. As part of the war effort of the Y.W.C.A., the defense coordination department cooperates with the USO and other defense organizations on campus and in the community.

Through its freshman department and a wide variety of social and recreational activities, the Y.W.C.A. provides girls with marvelous opportunities to make new friends among the students and faculty.

Any woman student of the University of Illinois is eligible to become a member of the University Y.W.C.A. It is an interracial, interdenominational, and international fellowship of student and faculty women. Membership in the "Y" gives any girl the opportunity to participate in Intercollegiate Conferences, and to become a member of the World's Y.W.C.A. and the World Student Christian Federation.

DOLL SHOW

"1492 to 1942" was the theme of the Doll Show from which were depicted historic and picturesque scenes from American life. Under the student chairmanship of Ethel McDonald, Barnum and Bailey, Massachusetts fishermen, and miners from Gold Rush days were interestingly portrayed.

Alpha Delta Pi was the first prize winner among the Panhellenic entries with "Harlem"—a jazz scene with a "hot" trumpet player and a "zoot suit" jitterbug. Warner Hall's coal miners within a realistic mine won first prize among independent groups. Ronda Mann took first place in the individual student contest, and Miss Erma Jones won first place in the adult entries.

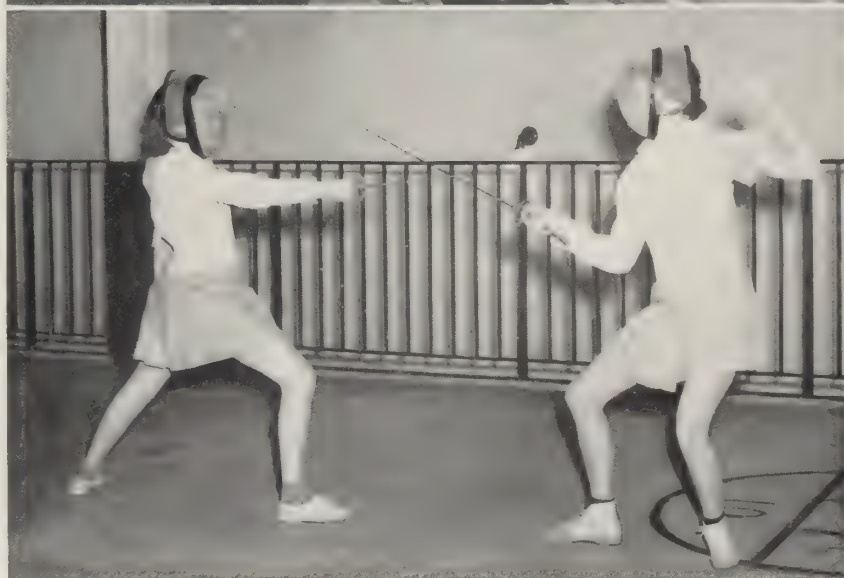

The annual Y.W.C.A. Doll Show dates back to 1906 when the West Side Settlement house in Chicago had no money with which to purchase Christmas gifts for the children, and the Y.W.C.A. aided by dressing dolls. A number of needy and appreciative children visit the Doll Show and select the dolls they want for Christmas.

W. A. A. ACTIVITIES

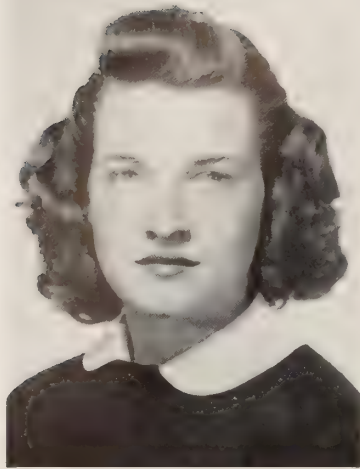

Any girl planning to lead a well-rounded college life—balancing study with recreation may participate in W.A.A. activities. It is not necessary for her to be a skilled athlete or to have had previous training, for instructions are provided for almost every sport. Highest award given by W.A.A. is the Major "I," awarded to those who successfully complete twelve sport seasons. To those completing six sport seasons, are awarded the orange chenille class numerals.

New members of W.A.A. are non-voting, but after completion of a sports season they are eligible to vote and hold office as well as to take part in sports. Alpha Sigma Nu, W.A.A. honorary, offers membership to any girl completing eight sport seasons and maintaining a University average of "B."

Organizations sponsored by W.A.A. are Terrapin, offering an excellent opportunity to increase proficiency in swimming and diving skills, and Orchesis, a group which seeks to develop the art of expression through graceful movement in dancing.

More University of Illinois women are participating in sports this year than ever before, with World War II the incentive for increasing their physical endurance and general health. They are finding in W.A.A. a way to do this that is fun and interesting.

The Women's Athletic Association, one of many similar organizations in colleges and universities throughout the nation, is united with the Athletic Federation of College Women. In interhouse games and individual matches, keen competition furthers physical well-being and good sportsmanship. Every girl in the University is eligible for membership, and may obtain new skill in old sports and fresh interest in new ones. She is a non-voting member until she

 The program for the year is divided into four sport seasons, each ended by a tournament. Awards are presented and new members initiated at teas and meetings.
 Highlights of the year are tournament games, Orchesis recitals, an annual spring banquet honoring graduating seniors and award winners, and the Ter-rapin swimming show.

 Incoming freshmen are welcomed by W.A.A. at a Sans Souci party in the fall. At that time, the organi-zation's program and leaders are introduced. Fresh-men are also encouraged to attain membership in Alpha Sigma Nu, W.A.A. honorary.

The name "Orchesis" is taken from the Greek word meaning "movement." Modern dancing, an exciting outlet for the creative impulse, is based upon the natural movement of the human body and upon the universal controlling factors of time, space, and energy.

Because of a natural desire for expression, a dance honorary, "Orchesis," was first founded at the University of Wisconsin and was followed by the establishment of a chapter at the University of Illinois. Membership is obtained by satisfactorily passing tryouts held several times a semester, and is open to all who show an interest in dancing.

Orchesis is composed of two groups, the general or beginning group, and the concert or advanced group. During the year, Orchesis presents two major dance concerts, one at the beginning of the second semester, and one in May. They are completely finished productions, with sparkling costumes, staging, lighting, and music. The concert group also presents several dance demonstrations for various departments and schools throughout the year.

In 1923, Terrapin, an honorary swimming club, was founded for the purpose of promoting and maintaining an interest and proficiency in all phases of aquatic activities.

Members of Terrapin are chosen by tryouts, held soon after registration each semester, and are placed in one of two divisions, Major or Minor Terrapin, according to their degree of skill. Weekly meetings are spent improving dives and swimming strokes and practicing for the water pageant.

Terrapin's annual water pageant, an entirely original production, is presented on Mother's Day week-end. At this time, members demonstrate their abilities in swimming and diving. Synchronized swimming and water formations are accompanied by music and unusual lighting effects.

PUBLICATIONS

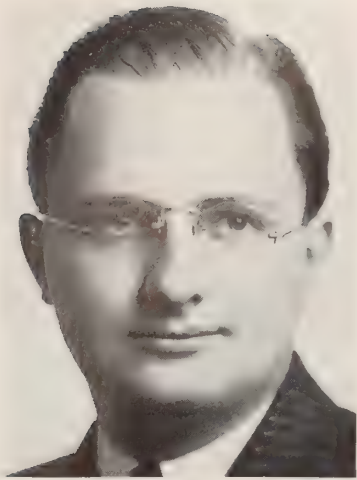

1892 . . . when the chief problem of the Illini staff was its campaign to oust the regent . . . when the "Origin and Culture of Wheat" was "front page stuff," more important than news of the day . . . when the ambition of each succeeding freshman class was to destroy plates, cartoons, and publication material of the Sophograph (forerunner of the Illio) . . . when the Illini staff held forth in a lower room of the "new drill hall" . . .

The Gay Nineties . . . when "Knick-Knacks" progressed to "the Chuckler" to "Blots" and thence to "the Scout," popular gossip column of today . . . fifty years ago . . .

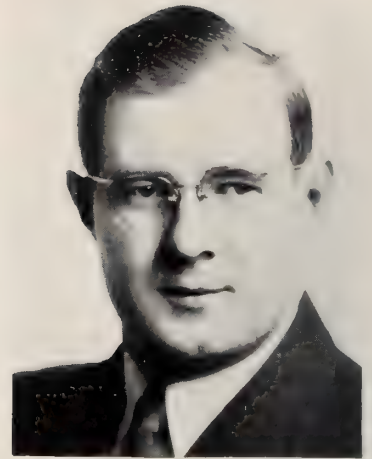

In fifty years of progress University of Illinois publications have grown too—from inconsequential "literary efforts" to the carefully organized student newspapers, magazines, and yearbooks of today. Deadlines, roaring presses, clacking typewriters, the smell of fresh black ink, and the thrill that comes with a "by-line"—all of these lured hundreds of students to work on University publications in 1943.

ILLINI PUBLISHING COMPANY

The four officially recognized student publications of the University are all under the excellent supervision of the Illini Publishing Company. The Company is a non-profit organization chartered under the laws of the State of Illinois, on May 11, 1911 for the purpose of publishing and distributing all the student publications as well as doing a general printing and publishing business. The Daily Illini, the student newspaper, and The Illio, the yearbook, are both supervised by the Company. The Technograph, a magazine under the editorship of Engineering students, and The Illinois Agriculturalist, which is published for the Agricultural students, are also controlled by the Company.

Management and control of the corporation is vested in the Board of Directors made up of eight members. Four members are appointed from the faculty by the President of the University to serve for one year, and the other four are elected by the student body, two members each year to serve for two years. One of the faculty members serves as Chairman of the Board, President of the Company, and the Associated Press representative for the Daily Illini.

On the basis of all-around merit, the Board of Directors selects the student editors and business managers of the several publications. In addition, the Board supervises the management of the publications while encouraging initiative and judgment on the part of the staffs.

A Company Manager is employed to operate the business and to advise the student leaders. The general policy of the Illini Publishing Company is the serving of the University and the community by printing, publishing and distributing publications of the highest standard of quality at the lowest possible cost.

THE SOPHOGRAPH — 1890

Greeting

1895 ILLIO — DEDICATION

In 1894 the publication of the annual yearbook changed from sophomore to junior hands. Published prior to that time under the title, Sophograph, the new publication became the first of fifty consecutive volumes of the Illio. Production of the Illio changed from junior to senior hands in 1931 with a minor change in title.

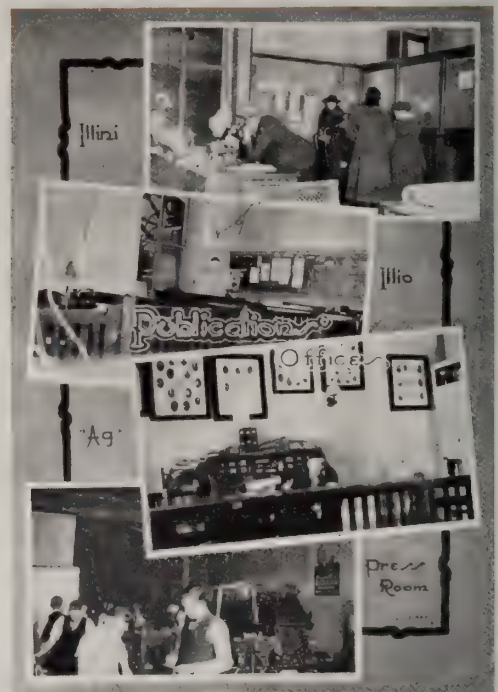

Page size of the first volume was $9\frac{1}{2}$ " by $7\frac{1}{2}$ ", but soon changed to $11\frac{1}{2}$ " by $9\frac{1}{2}$ ", and in 1909 to $11\frac{1}{2}$ " by $10\frac{1}{2}$ ". Since 1924, the page size has been 9" by 12".

The first volume contained 148 pages; this, the fiftieth volume, contains 568 pages.

TO the haughty Senior, calm in his self-conceit; to the ostentatious Sophomore, king of fools; to freshman and to Prep, indistinguishable and equally insignificant; to the Professor, bewhiskered and unimpeachable; to the Janitor, with broom and basket; to all, over whom our great University exercises its kindly influence, this book is dedicated with sincere affection and with hearty good-will.

SOCIETY

Preceding the formation of dancing clubs in the early 1890's, social life on the campus was largely confined to the activities of the literary societies.

In 1898, there was held the first Military Ball, followed, in 1905, by the first Law Dance. In 1910, the first Engineering Dance was held; later it became St. Patrick's Ball.

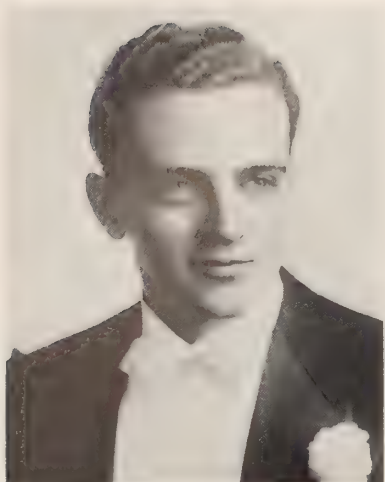

An increase in the number of dances led to the formation, in 1923, of the University Dance Supervision Committee to which all dance committees were responsible.

In 1924, Axe Grinders' Ball, predecessor of Headliners' Hop, was first held. In 1925, the freshman class held its first "couple" Freshman Frolic. Other dances which began about the same time were the Arch Fete, later known as Fine Arts Ball; Mi Hila, annual formal dance for independent students; and Pan-Hellenic Ball, sponsored jointly by the Pan-Hellenic and Interfraternity Councils.

Today, in war-time, dances have been limited to Senior Ball, Junior Prom, Sophomore Cotillion, Freshman Frolic, Military Ball, Registration Dance, and the Ag Dance.

The highlight of the 1942-43 social season came on December 11, when the class of 1944 presented their Junior Prom. Alvino Rey and the enchanting King Sisters held the close attention during the entire evening not only of the dancers, but also of the watching crowd in the balcony.

The evening was climaxed by the election of the Queen, Maxine Rader, who was escorted to her beautiful throne by her Court of Honor consisting of Mildred Warfield, Pat Gagan, Marilyn Skiles, and Shirley Wallace.

The traditional Grand March was led by Gene Mathers, class president, and Robert Lowry, prom chairman.

The decorations and the programs were simple in keeping with the spirit of the times.

Gladly putting away their books after finals, Illini seniors swung out at the last big all-university dance of the year, Senior Ball. This festive affair marked the beginning of Senior Week for the Class of 1942 and it was also memorable as being the last fling of many senior men who would soon be leaving for service with Uncle Sam.

Bob Chester and his sweet, smooth rhythm provided the musical background for 934 couples in Huff gym. Behind the bandstand hung a huge black cap and gown which seemed to be suspended in air. The black of the cap and gown were set off by a white backdrop. The decorations were very simple, all the color coming from the red, blue, green and yellow lights along the sides which illuminated the swaying seniors on the dance floor.

The Grand March ended one of the most successful dances of the season. The couples marched up the middle of the floor to the strains of "Illinois Loyalty" climaxing this enjoyable dance.

The Sophomore Cotillion, held on March 12, was one of the last all-University dances to be held in the George Huff Gymnasium, for the duration. Traditionally a formal affair, the cotillion was informal for the first time as a patriotic gesture in these war times.

Ted Fio Rito and his band played their characteristic sky-line music for the dancers. The theme of the music was carried out in the decorations and the programs. A huge sky-line silhouette provided a back-drop for the band, and the programs were blue with a striking black sky-line silhouette whose lighted windows spelled out '45.

At the time of this writing, plans for the Freshman Frolic, traditionally the sole informal class dance to be held during the year, were still indefinite.

In deference to the changed conditions resulting from the war and the needs of the nation, the Class of '46 deemed it best to make its dance as simple as possible and to eliminate decorations and unnecessary frills.

Notwithstanding this wartime somberness, no shadow seemed to have been cast upon the success of the affair as the fun-loving Illini prepared to drop their classroom sobriety and to fall enthusiastically into the gala spirit of the occasion. The freshmen endeavored to preserve the spirit of the dance by planning to have the programs in green—the symbolic color of freshmen everywhere.

Huckleberry Finns and Tom Sawyers dressed in overalls and straw hats took Becky Thatchers to the Ag Dance on the night of April 16. The crowded dance floor was filled with happy, laughing couples in gay play clothes. Informality was the key word for the evening, and everyone abided by it.

The Ag Dance was a result of the capable chairmanship of Ralph S. Yohe who headed a willing committee. This dance was a cooperative function of the Ag and Home Economics clubs, the presidents of which appointed the chairman and the committee.

STAGE AND CONCERT

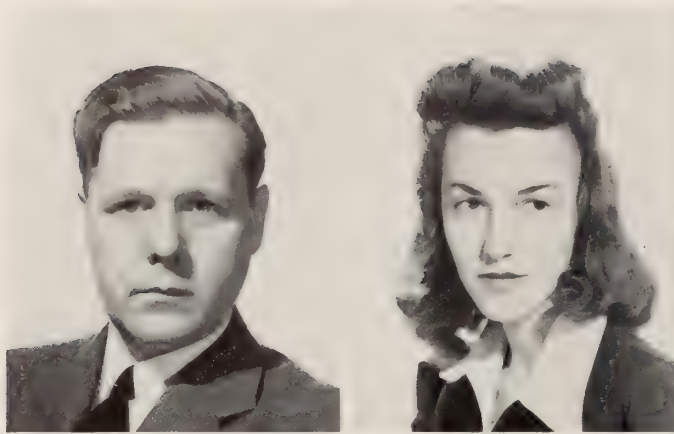

The glare of footlights, the smell of grease paint in the dressing rooms, the endless rehearsals—all are a part of Lincoln Hall Theatre, an actor's paradise for students who in the growing years of the University have donned their paint and costumes to portray Hamlet or Queen Elizabeth.

In 1925, three independent organizations, Mask and Bauble, Pierrots, and the Player's Club, fused to form the present Theatre Guild. The productions have been presented in many of the University buildings, including Morrow Hall and the Auditorium, and even in the Rialto Theatre. The Lincoln Hall Theatre was built in 1928, and at that time was one of the best equipped and most perfect acoustically among college theatres.

Star Course was founded in 1917 by the Adelphic and Philomathean Literary Societies, and in the same year a student-faculty board was set up which is now called the Concert and Entertainment Board.

THE FLYING GERARDOS

"The Flying Gerardos," written by Kenyon Nicholson and Charles Robinson, was given by the Illini Theatre Guild on March 20 and 21, 1942, at the Lincoln Hall Theatre, and was presented at the Champaign U.S.O. Club on March 22, 1942. Under the direction of Wesley Swanson and Joseph W. Scott, the three act comedy was a huge success.

The Gerardos are a gay troupe of acrobats—sparkling and dazzling in their costumes as they swing from their trapezes in the "big top." The troupe becomes divided when Donna, cleverly portrayed by Barbara Eastman, falls in love with Doc Vermillion, a learned professor. Some of the troupe like the professor, but some dislike him intensely. The comedy reaches new heights in merriment when Doc tries his hand at acrobating to please the troupe and Donna.

The unusual theme of this comedy plus the excellent acting and directing made "The Flying Gerardos" a very successful production.

IOLANTHE

On the evenings of April 17 and 18, 1942, the Illini Theatre Guild presented the second production of Arepo's tenth season, Iolanthe by W. S. Gilbert and Sir Arthur Sullivan, under the direction of Kathryn Janie Sutherlin and technical direction of Joseph W. Scott. Keith Wilson conducted the orchestra.

Iolanthe, banished from fairy land because she has married a mortal, chooses to live at the bottom of a river to be near her son who was born shortly after her banishment. Strephon, her son, is in love with Phyllis but because the Lord Chancellor will not give his consent they cannot be married. The Fairy Queen sends Strephon to Parliament where all his laws will be passed, thereby angering the peers. The Lord Chancellor, who wants to marry Phyllis himself, is appealed to by Iolanthe. Then all the fairies join Iolanthe in her sin and marry mortals. Therefore, the law is changed saying that every fairy not marrying a mortal must die. Phyllis and Strephon are married, and all return to fairy land.

OUT OF THE FRYING PAN

Francis Swann's "Out of the Frying Pan" was presented by the Illini Theatre Guild in the Lincoln Hall Theatre on the nights of May 1 and 2, and June 25, 26, and 27, 1942, under the able play direction of Wesley Swanson and technical direction of Joseph W. Scott.

The plot consists of a group of boys and girls, theatrically minded, who live in an apartment over a producer. They observe the producer through a hole in the floor, and finally they attract his attention and are able to show him their talent. Francis Swann conceived his idea from four young actresses, one of whom was his sister, who presented plays in their small, over-crowded living-room. He realized the comic possibilities of the situation and wrote "Out of the Frying Pan" which was produced on Broadway within a month.

The clever stage settings were designed by Lowell Roberts, Sue Straus, and Herbert Hensey.

ROPE'S END

Patrick Hamilton's famous horror play, "Rope's End," was presented in Lincoln Hall Theatre on the evenings of October 9, 10, 23 and 24, 1942, under the direction of Wesley Swanson.

In an effort to commit the "perfect crime," Wyndham Brandon and Charles Granillo, two college friends, murder a very popular friend of theirs. The real excitement of the play comes, however, when they invite several people to dinner, which is served from a chest which contains the body. Leila Arden, skillfully portrayed by Shirley Smith, unwittingly arouses the question of what is in the chest, and Rupert Cadell, a lame guest characterized by Byron Riggan, accuses the two hosts of murdering their friend. Realizing that their perfect crime was not quite perfect, Brandon and Granillo confess their horrible deed.

Wyndham Brandon was excellently played by Tom Tyrrell as a self-confident fellow, while Alfred Culver made Charles Granillo, in contrast, an undecided and frightened murderer. The supporting cast kept the story moving quickly and entertainingly to the final confession of the murder.

THE WOMEN

On the evenings of November 21, 22, 27, and 28, Pierrots once again came through with a performance of mirth and laughs, as only Pierrots can do. Their presentation of Clare Booth's "The Women" was extremely good and provided an evening of good entertainment.

The all-male cast was, if not ideally, at least absurdly perfect to fill the shoes of the all-women characters in the play. Though not entirely convincing as women, the men of Pierrots were certainly amusing.

Tom Tyrrell turned in a grand performance as the sweet, unaffected Mary Haines, and was equalled only by the performance of Henry May as the vicious cat, Sylvia Fowler. Together they fought the thing out to an entirely satisfactory finish, with Sandy Comora as Crystal Allen doing his part to keep the ball rolling.

The directors, Charles Shattuck and Wesley Swanson, can well be proud of this year's production, as can all the cast who participated in making "The Women" the success that it was.

LA BOHEME

La Boheme was presented by Arepo on December 11th and 12th, 1942, as the first production of its eleventh season.

This famous opera was sung by Reno Harms, as Rudolfo, and Dorothy Belting, as Mimi, in the leads, and a well-chosen supporting cast, including Wallace Sturm, Marilyn Skiles, Byron Riggan, and many other Illini Theatre Guild favorites.

This opera of student life in the Latin Quarter of Paris one hundred years ago and the tale of the loves of these students has long been a favorite, both for its music and story, and was well received by its audience of Illini.

Excellent directing by Kathryn Janie Sutherlin made the production run smoothly, and the music, under the direction of the conductor, Keith Wilson, provided a fine background. It was perfect to the last fine point, and the costumes of the period added the finishing note to the picture.

STAR COURSE

For the past fifty-one years Star Course has brought cultural entertainment to the University of Illinois. As early as 1883 lectures by outstanding men and women of the time began to be sponsored by the Philomathean and Adelpic Literary Societies. These occasional lectures proved so popular that in 1891 the Star Lecture Course was begun. For twenty-six years it remained under the auspices of the literary societies. Finally, in 1931, the University Concert and Entertainment Board was organized to supervise all public entertainment given at the University for which admission is charged. Star Course was then placed under control of this Board.

The University Concert and Entertainment Board is composed of four faculty members and four students. Its function is to select artists presented each year and to appoint the senior and junior managers and the sophomore staff.

This year Star Course presented a series of side concerts. The Don Cossack Chorus thrilled the University audience with its wild Russian songs and dances. Following the Don Cossacks, Star Course presented the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra which has proved exceedingly popular in its four performances at Illinois. Third concert in this year's series was given by the outstanding baritone, Paul Robeson. In January, Claudio Arrau, world acclaimed pianist gave a delightful program. Albert Spalding, already well known to University audiences, lived up to his reputation as one of the world's most gifted violinists in his concert here. This spring the final concert was presented by Rose Bampton, leading Metropolitan soprano. It is the sincere desire of the University Concert and Entertainment Board and the Star Course staff that they may continue to bring the University fine concerts.

STAR COURSE

ALBERT SPALDING

Star Course patrons have acclaimed Albert Spalding repeatedly during the last two decades, and this year on Wednesday, February 17, 1943, they again applauded the master of the violin.

Born in Chicago, Spalding studied in Florence, Italy, New York, and at the Paris Conservatory. At twenty he made his debut in Paris with Adelina Path. He has achieved a most enviable success as a violinist, a composer, and an arranger. Albert Spalding takes rank with the most gifted European violinists.

PAUL ROBESON

Paul Robeson, the great negro singer, has achieved the status of an American institution; everywhere, enthusiastic audiences cheer his magnificent performances. His rich voice and depth of feeling stir the heart and the imagination. Encore time at his concerts is a pandemonium of shouted requests, for he is, indeed, "First among the vocalists of his race, and comparable to the greatest singers of any race."

STAR COURSE

INDIANAPOLIS SYMPHONY

The Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra appeared at the University this year for the fourth time. This symphonic group, in its present status as one of the sixteen major symphony orchestras in the country, started when Dr. Sevitky assumed its baton as permanent conductor at the opening of the concert season in November, 1937. The orchestra and the conductor are internationally famous for their broadcasts on all three major networks, and for the annually increasing concert tours which are necessitated by demands from music-lovers of cities all over the United States. Dr. Sevitky stands foremost among American conductors for his long-time championship of American music. He believes the greatest music of the future will come from the pens of American composers, just as the greatest music of the past has been written by Europeans.

STAR COURSE

DON COSSACK CHORUS

On Thursday, October 19, the General Platoff Don Cossack Chorus swelled to thundering crescendo as they sang of the noble warrior whose name they bear. These exiles of pre-Soviet Mother Russia not only do homage to their national hero, but keep verdant the memory of their lost homeland.

This Russian male chorus has been organized for fourteen years under the brilliant leadership of Nicholas Kostru-koff. The exultant fervor of the voices is heard in the beautiful liturgical music of the Russian-Orthodox Church and in the exquisite, haunting melodies of the Russian folk-song. To these are added the wild Cossack songs with their exciting mixture of interspersed shouts and whistling. Then there is the thrill of the dances, bringing the performance to an exciting close.

STAR COURSE

ROSE BAMPTON

As leading soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Association, Rose Bampton has risen to enviable heights in the brief space of a few years. She made her Metropolitan debut on her twenty-third birthday and from then on her career assumed an international scope. Her brilliant performance at this university demonstrates that she is equally at home on the concert stage and before the microphone of leading radio programs.

CLAUDIO ARRAU

Like Mozart, Claudio Arrau began as a child prodigy; like Sibelius, he has been financed by his country. When he was seven, the foresighted Chilean Government sent him to Berlin to study under the great Liszt disciple, Martin Krause. Arrau is now a member of the Chilean diplomatic service and receives leaves of absence for his concert tours.

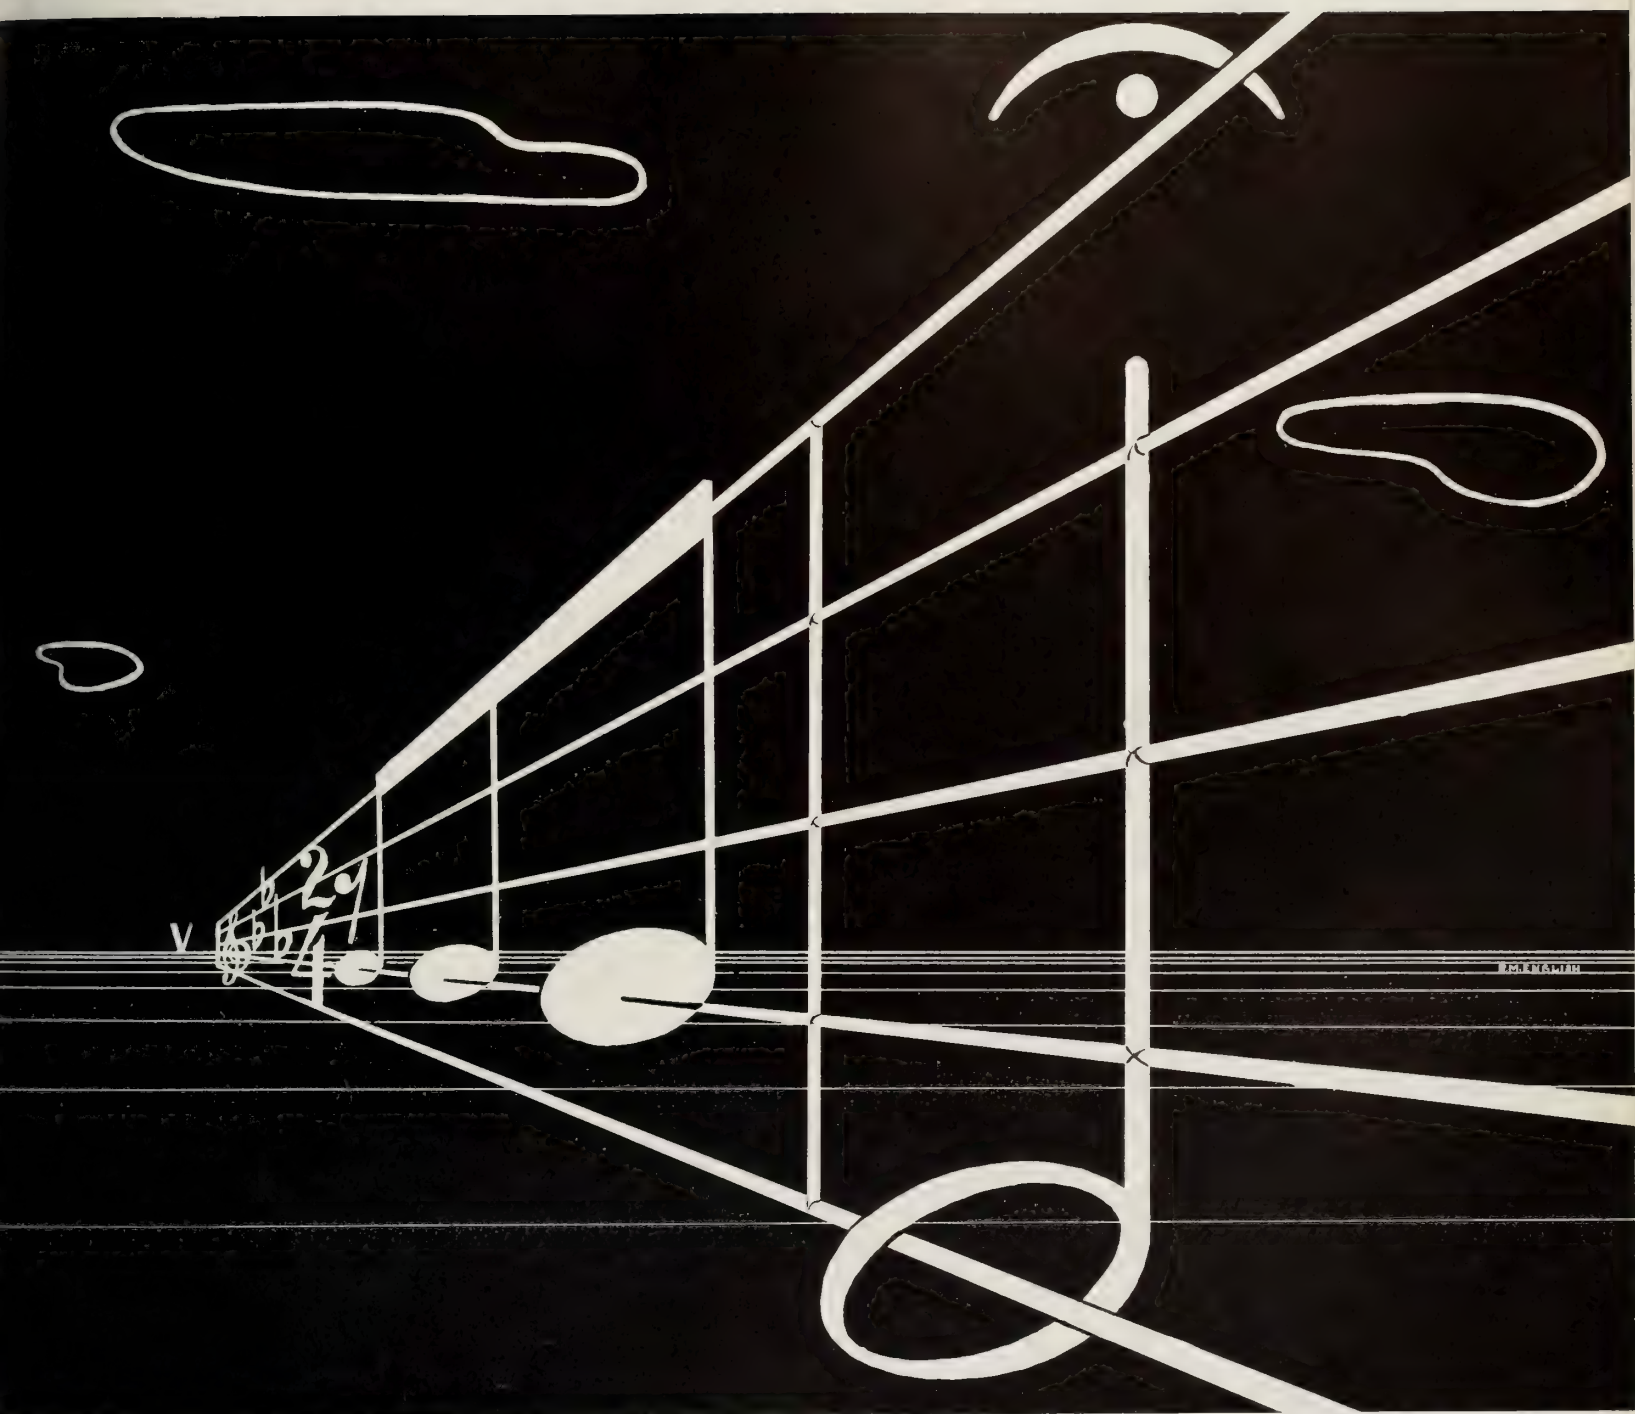

MUSIC

The bands, orchestra, chorus, and glee club . . . music, the harmonious part of education, has always been an essential part of the University. In 1870 a brass band was organized, and two decades later it was probably the first to play tunes other than the usual marches. From this group grew the Illini concert band, which gave its first annual concert in 1890. Illinois was the leader in the development of the symphonic type of band, with seating arrangement and repertoire corresponding to the symphonic orchestra.

John Philip Sousa, who gave the band the title, "World's Greatest College Band", left his complete library of music to the University bands, which now have probably the finest collection of band music in the country.

Illinois also has one of the best glee clubs in the mid-west, as was shown by their showing in the National Collegiate Glee Club Contest.

UNIVERSITY BANDS

The University of Illinois Military Bands Department consists of three separate bands; the Concert Band, the First Regimental Band, and the Second Regimental Band. Competitive examinations given at different intervals throughout the year determine positions and promotions in these organizations. Prior to the present school year, military credit was given to members of the bands; however, due to the war, this policy has been temporarily suspended. In spite of this fact, the enrollment in the Band Department has remained the same in proportion to the enrollment of the University. Concert Band Members are eligible for a scholarship after they have satisfied the required military.

The war has brought many changes to the Illinois campus. For the first time in its history, the band has permitted women to enter its ranks. The war has also taken its toll in the bands' staff of directors. Mr. Mark H. Hindsley, former Assistant Director, was commissioned a Captain in the U. S. Army and is now music officer of the Special Service Division of the Air Corps.

Professor A. A. Harding, Director of Bands at the University since 1905, has sought untiringly through many years to raise the musical and technical standards of band performances in the United States. The University Concert Band is a direct result of these efforts, and stands as an incentive to young bandmen all over America to strive for a higher degree of musical excellence.

The First Regimental Band is now under the direction of Mr. Clarence E. Sawhill. Mr. Keith L. Wilson, a former assistant, is conducting the Second Regimental Band. These bands study the finest in band and orchestra music during the year, and also play numerous concerts and furnish the music for military ceremonies, athletic events, and other University functions.

The famous Illini Football Band, noted for its marching, singing, and playing, is a marching unit of 180 bandmen selected from the Concert and First Regimental Bands. Mr. Sawhill directed the activities of the football band and accomplished the task of keeping the bands' performances on their usual high plane. He was assisted by Mr. Keith L. Wilson and Mr. Milburn E. Carey.

The opening of Spring brought with it the twilight concerts played each Wednesday evening. These informal concerts given on the quadrangle in front of the Auditorium have always been a favorite with the student body. The band year was brought to a close with its performances in the ceremonies of Commencement Week.

MILITARY

Few of us realize that this University was a war effort of our forefathers. During the early days of the Civil War our people learned, as we are learning again, that military, agricultural, and mechanic's arts are the foundation of a successful prosecution of war. They wrote that fact into the Morrill Act under which the University of Illinois was founded and is operated today.

The dire need for properly trained young men to fill responsible positions of leadership in our armed forces was again accentuated in World War I. This resulted in the inauguration by the War Department of a more comprehensive program in certain selected universities and colleges for the training of reserve officers against any future emergency.

From the early days when military instruction was principally concerned with what are known today as "formal drills", the University has kept abreast of the time so that today a large staff of instructors prepare the advanced course students of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps in the wide scope of modern war to such an extent that with very little additional practical field training they can properly perform their duties as combat leaders.

That the University has justified and done honor to the military part of its ancestry is proven by the thousands of her sons who have been leaders in our past wars, who are leaders today and who are in preparation for leadership tomorrow.

Army officers are detailed by the War Department as instructors in the several units. The senior officer, as academic head of the department, is Professor of Military Science and Tactics. In the military organization, he is Commandant of Cadets. All other officers hold appropriate subordinate academic and military positions on his staff. The senior officer in each unit is the Unit Director.

An Enlisted Detachment is also assigned to assist with the instruction.

The courses cover four consecutive years of work. The first two, required for all physically fit male freshmen and sophomores, is the Basic Course. The final two years are called the Advanced Course. Students who have completed the Basic Course may apply for the Advanced Course. Those selected, within a quota authorized by the War Department, are admitted to the Advanced Course. The satisfactory completion of this work is for them a prerequisite for graduation.

In normal times a student who completes the Advanced Course, and is recommended by the President of the University and the Professor of Military Science and Tactics, is eligible for appointment by the President of the United States as a Reserve Officer in the Army of the United States. During the existing emergency, however, Advanced Course cadets go to their respective branch schools for a special course of practical instruction upon the successful completion of which they are commissioned Second Lieutenants in the Reserve Corps.

The Cadet Staff, headed by the Cadet Colonel, is responsible for the proper execution of all orders issued by the Military Department. The staff is composed of six Cadet Majors, one from each unit of the Corps of Cadets.

The Staff plans and supervises the retreat formations on Fridays, one member acting as Adjutant while the remainder assist the Cadet Colonel in the performance of necessary duties. The members of the Staff are an important part of the Military Council, where they hold such posts as Secretary and Treasurer.

Thus the Cadet Staff works to maintain the efficiency of the cadet officers as well as the freshman and sophomore members of the Corps of Cadets.

The Military Council has occupied an increasingly important position in student activities in the University since its founding in 1929. Acting as a governing body of the Reserve Officers Training Corps, it strengthens the bond between the cadets of the R.O.T.C. and the officers of the regular staff.

In addition to governing functions, various activities of the military department, including the Officers' Ball, the Military Ball, and dances given by other organizations in the department, are supervised by the Council. The Millini, the military publication issued annually on Military Day, containing an entire record of the year's military activities, is published under the supervision of the Council.

The Cadet Colonel, who serves as president, heads the Military Council. The Brigade Staff, the Lieutenant Colonel of each of the six R.O.T.C. units, a representative from each of the military organizations, and two officers of the R.O.T.C. faculty chosen as advisors complete the membership of the Council.

If any profits are derived from the activities supervised or sponsored by the Military Council, they are donated to the Military Special Unit Fund. From this fund expenses for improvements not provided for in the regular grants of the State and Federal Governments are met.

CAVALRY

While most of the Cavalry of today is mechanized and vastly different in appearance from the horse Cavalry of a few years ago, the fundamental tactical principles of its employment have not changed. The Cavalry still remains a weapon of opportunity, possessing surprise, speed, great mobility, and fire power. Although the mechanized Cavalry, with its scout and armored cars, light and heavy tanks, and the anti-tank and assault (105mm. howitzer) guns is more prominent in the Army of today, it has not replaced the horse. The Cavalry officer must be prepared to command not only the units of horse Cavalry but also the mechanized units. A number of officers are also needed to conduct intelligence, communication, transportation, motor maintenance, pioneer, and demolition duties. The duties of Cavalry officers vary greatly; cadets receive the necessary training to adapt themselves to any assignment they may receive.

COAST ARTILLERY

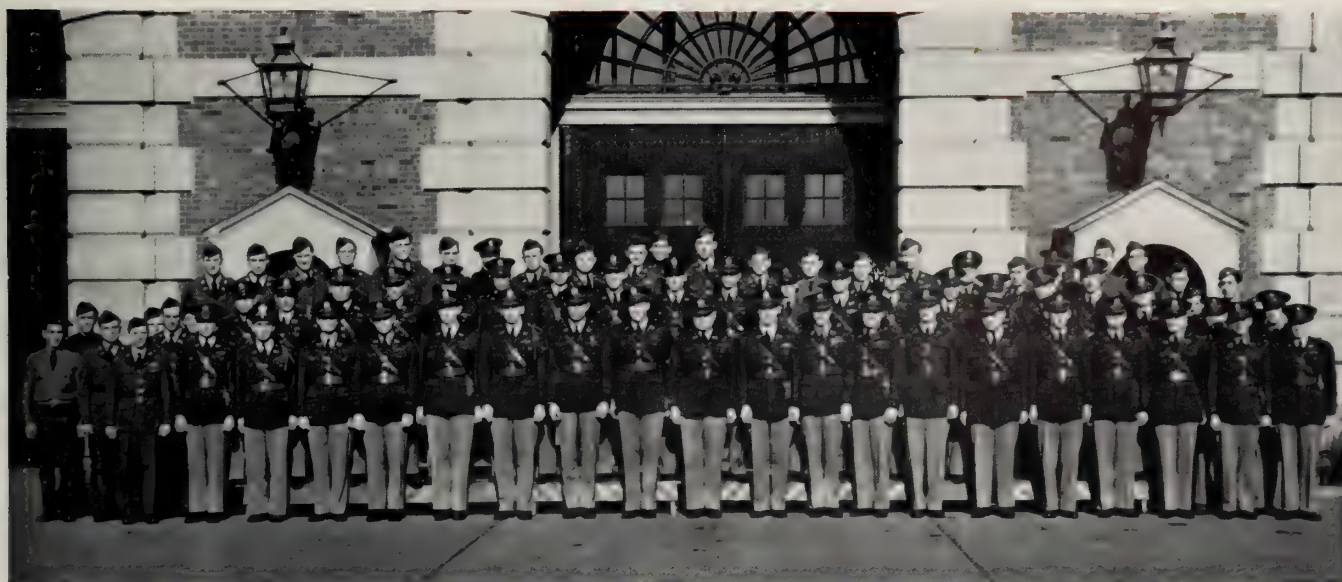

THOMAS H. CLOKE
Lt. Colonel

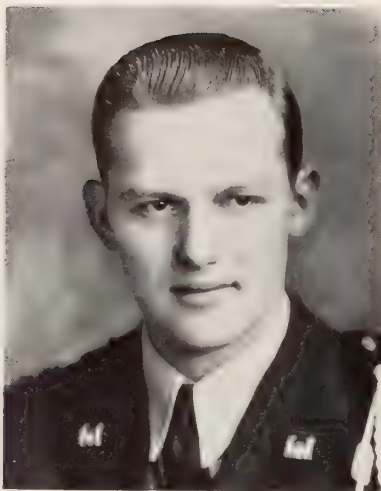

The great amount of air activity in the present war serves to stress the importance of the anti-aircraft training given by the Coast Artillery unit. Both basic and advanced course cadets are taught the principles and operation of the modern anti-aircraft equipment. Seacoast artillery is also a phase of the training being given, but, since the unit is so far inland, major emphasis is being placed on the anti-aircraft training.

The training given by the Coast Artillery is designed to give the basic student a working knowledge of how the unit operates in time of war, and to better prepare him for active duty as a non-commissioned officer in the armed services. The advanced course student studies more advanced courses in preparation for becoming a commissioned officer in the Coast Artillery unit of the Army Reserve Corps.

At the present time the unit has five Army officers and is training 823 students.

RAYMOND H. BOHMAN
Lt. Colonel

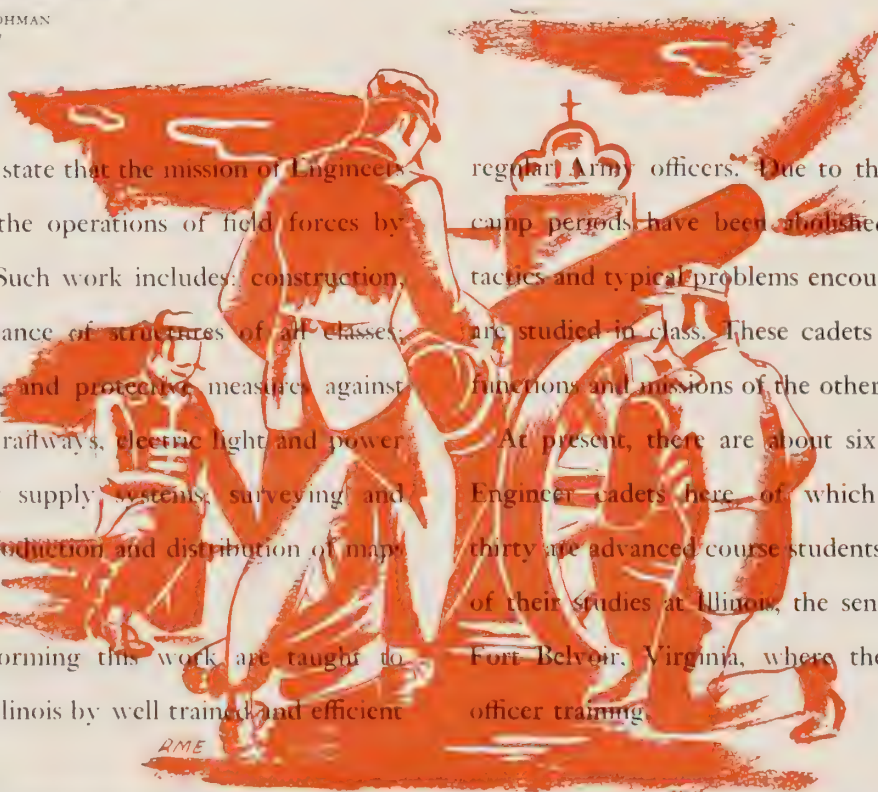

ENGINEERS

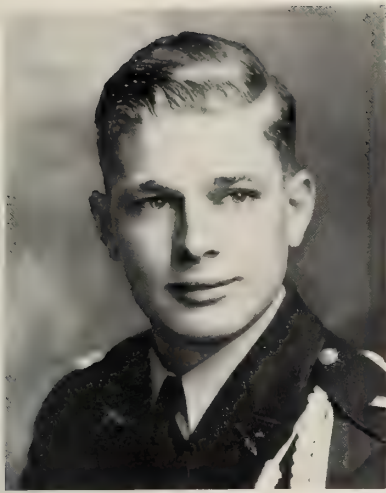

Army regulations state that the mission of Engineers in war is to assist the operations of field forces by engineering work. Such work includes: construction, repair, and maintenance of structures of all classes; mining, demolitions, and protective measures against mines; operation of railways, electric light and power systems, and water supply systems; surveying and mapping, and the production and distribution of maps and photographs.

Methods of performing this work are taught to Engineer cadets at Illinois by well trained and efficient regular Army officers. Due to the fact that summer camp periods have been abolished for the duration, tactics and typical problems encountered by Engineers are studied in class. These cadets are also taught the functions and missions of the other units of the Army.

At present, there are about six hundred and sixty Engineer cadets here, of which one hundred and thirty are advanced course students. Upon completion of their studies at Illinois, the seniors will be sent to Fort Belvoir, Virginia, where they will finish their officer training.

MELVIN R. JANSSEN
Lt. Colonel

FIELD ARTILLERY

JOHN R. GLICK
Lt. Colonel

The largest unit in the military department is the Field Artillery unit. Training in this unit covers all phases of Field Artillery activity, from work with the small carbine, a weapon of personal defense, to calculation of firing data for the huge 240 mm. howitzer, a fifteen-ton weapon firing a 300-pound projectile. Included is training in basic survey operations, signal communication, leadership, motor and horse transport, and all the myriad activities necessary to accomplish the mission of the Field Artillery—to clear the way for the Infantry or any other supporting arm.

To supplement actual class instruction, the Field Artillery unit, through the medium of its student organizations (Caisson Club, and Plateau and Drum), conducts volunteer training which culminates each semester in a large-scale night maneuver over unfamiliar terrain far from the campus. In this way, the unit insures that its graduates are well qualified to "keep those caissons rolling along."

ROBERT F. LONG
Lt. Colonel

INFANTRY

The object of the R.O.T.C. is to qualify students for positions of leadership in times of national emergency. With this goal in mind, and to comply with the Army's accelerated program, the Infantry instructors have initiated a concentrated three year course. Under the new program, basic training of a year and a half is given in drill, discipline, duties, and weapons of a soldier. The advanced course, of the same length, stresses initiative and leadership, and at the same time gives an adequate background in military science and tactics.

The six weeks summer camp has been abolished for the duration. To partially take its place, the unit is given one field problem each semester. Upon graduation, and after passing a physical examination, the student is sent to the Infantry School at Fort Benning, Georgia, where, after completing Officers' Training School, he will receive the coveted gold bars and assignment to active duty.

SIGNAL CORPS

PAUL A. FRELLAND
Lt. Colonel

Communications, supply, photography, training of men in other units for specialized work, and interception and solution of enemy messages—under these general headings comes the work of the Signal Corps in modern warfare.

The Signal Corps unit of the University of Illinois R.O.T.C. brigade gives its cadets theoretical and practical instruction in all of these branches. In the basic course, freshmen and sophomores are taught the fundamentals and background of signal work, including practice in sending and receiving Morse code, working with field radio and telegraph sets, and wire laying.

Men chosen for advanced course subjects are given specialized training in the branch of the signal corps in which they show particular interest or aptitude.

Thus juniors and seniors enroll in one of the four divisions of the R.O.T.C. unit—cryptanalysis, supply, photography, or combat—according to where they feel they can best fit into the Signal Corps operations.

The date of one of the most colorful dances of the Illini social season of 1942-3 was November 20. The occasion was the Military Ball which was held in George Huff Gymnasium. Responsible for the entire success of the dance was a committee headed by Cadet Colonel Richard H. Moss.

The decorations were in keeping with the times. The backdrop behind the band was white, and on it was placed a clever adaptation of the military motif.

The programs were red, white, and blue carrying out the military theme of the dance.

Dancing was particularly enjoyable to the "smooth" music of Del Courtney and his orchestra. His arrangements were also well received by the gleeful spectators in the balconies. Shortly after midnight came the highlight of the evening, the Grand March, led by the Cadet Colonel, climaxing one of the best Military Balls ever given at Illinois.

ILLI—NOISE!

“Roasts” “Humor” “Events of the Year” and now “Illi-Noise” There has always been a section of the Illio devoted to that part of campus life which enters more into tradition than into print.

One of the great traditions of Illinois is Interscholastics week-end, first held in 1893. During this week-end, high school guests of the University have, through the years, competed in all types of athletic and oratorical contests, and have been entertained by University students with a college track meet, college baseball game, and the nationally famous Interscholastic Circus.

The Maypole Dance was first held in 1898 on “back-campus,” but because of larger crowds, it was transferred to Illinois Field. With the addition of folk dances, the program became the May Day Festival.

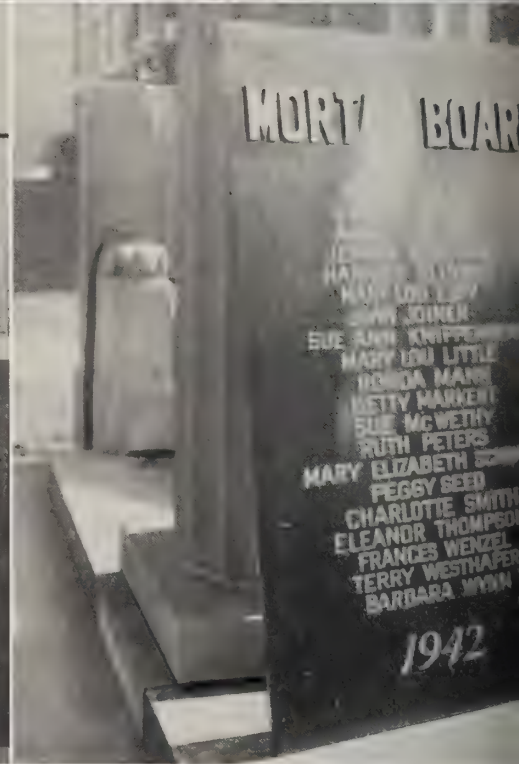

Class struggles between freshmen and sophomores were long an important part of campus life. In early years, the sophomores threw the freshmen into the boneyard (so named by Indians who strewed its banks with the bones of their hunting kills). Later, these struggles took the forms of color rushes, pushball contests, and sack rushes.

Homecoming, Dads’ Day, and Mothers’ Day, were first established in the collegiate world by Illinois students. These traditional celebrations have been copied by other universities throughout the country.

FRATERNITIES

From Alpha to Omega, from handle-bar mustache to "crew cut", traditions tend to bind the fraternity man to his brothers. Tubbing, walkouts, paddles . . . initiations, formal dances, serenades . . . pin hangings, cigar-passing, "swan songs" . . . all give memories of Greek life that may fade with years but will never die. These events assure the new "alum" that coming decades can never yellow his shingle or remove the incandescence from his pin.

There are now more than fifty national fraternities on the Illinois campus; once, however, it seemed there would never be any such organizations.

When the University was founded, fraternities were looked upon with distrust and disfavor by the public. For almost fifteen years after that founding students were required to sign a pledge that they would not join any secret societies here. Now, however, they are not only recognized, they are an officially approved part of University life.

SORORITIES

The decade of the nineties brought the Chicago Columbian Exposition, the peak of the Free Silver controversy, and here at Illinois, the first social Greek letter organizations for women.

Although the University was established in 1867, it was not until the fall of 1895 that sororities were organized at the University of Illinois. In October, two groups secured charters from national sororities.

The number of groups increased annually until 1911, when the Girls' Pan-Hellenic Association, with nine sororities participating, became the controlling body for sorority women. Today, representatives from twenty-one national sororities meet in council to determine plans and policies which guide the lives of nine hundred girls.

In the early years, sorority members did not live in sorority houses but met each week at a specified meeting place. Today, each of the Illinois sororities has a chapter house where all members may live and work together.

INDEPENDENT ORGANIZATIONS

Independents and Greeks, working together, have achieved much on the campus. A true democratic spirit has prevailed through the years, the independent organizations holding an important position in the University. After sororities and fraternities became established, independent organizations were patterned from them. In 1922 sorority girls helped to organize W.G.S. . . . with the purpose of making the campus more democratic. Today we have W.G.S., R.G.S., and M.I.D.A. . . . all co-operating to give thousands of University students the opportunity to live in an organized group with other students, forming lasting friendships, enjoying an active social life, and striving for common goals. Independent organizations represent many students, and give these students lasting memories of college days . . . memories of friends with whom they have lived, worked and played.

HONORARIES AND PROFESSIONALS

The literary societies of early university days are no longer on this campus, and many of the early professional fraternities are now listed as social. The Philomatheans and Alethenais, the guitar and mandolin clubs, and the students dancing clubs have disappeared only to be replaced by other organizations representing different fields of endeavor and honoring different academic achievements.

Wherever is found a university student with the will to do and the right to achieve . . . there also is found an organization to honor him. For this reason, above all, honorary and professional organizations on the campus have grown in scope and number since their beginnings, while still retaining their original purposes.

Fostering ideals, promoting friendships, and advancing the interests of the university and the students, these organizations have played an important part in the progress of the university.

AGRICULTURAL CLUB

The Agricultural Club of the University of Illinois, with a membership of approximately 315 students, acts as a coordinator of Ag Campus activities. In addition to the central club there are nine subsidiary clubs representing each of the various departments of the college. Each member of the central club automatically becomes a member of whichever specialized club he prefers. Some of the major activities of the year, falling either under the auspices of the Ag Club or its subsidiaries, are the All-Ag Field Day, the Ag Dance, the spring judging contests, and the All-Ag Banquet.

Normally the Little International and the various collegiate judging teams were sponsored by these groups. In order to cooperate with war-time restrictions on traveling, however, these activities have been discontinued for the duration.

The policies of the Ag Club are determined by the Agricultural Council, composed of the presidents of the specialized clubs, the editor of the Illinois Agriculturist, and the president of the central club.

Tribute to a Pioneer

THE LIBERTY SHIP
"JOHN DEERE"

~ and the American Idea

With the launching of the Liberty ship, "John Deere," the United States Maritime Commission pays tribute to one of America's pioneers in agricultural achievement.

"It is fitting that this honor be bestowed on the man whose vision and foresight, one hundred and six years ago, gave to the world the steel plow and founded the organization which bears his name."

The S.S. "John Deere," launched months ahead of schedule, is a typical product of the ingenuity and freedom of enterprise which are cornerstones in the American economy. We of the John Deere organization like to believe that our founder, himself a man whose ruling pride lay in a job well done, would derive a greater satisfaction from the speed and efficiency of American production than from the personal tribute paid him.

3 DISTINCTIVE SCHOOLS Strategically LOCATED

The strategic location of our three schools—The Rockford School of Business in the northern part of the state, Brown's Peoria School of Business in the central and the Gallagher School of Business in the eastern part—gives many decided advantages to both students and employers, which are not enjoyed by those of many schools.

The territory served by the three schools covers 105,000 square miles and extends over a great portion of four states; namely, Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, and Indiana.

Their combined training and employment facilities offer unprecedented opportunities for young men and young women throughout the vast territory in which they have successfully operated for many years.

The educational value of their carefully organized courses of study makes them a dominant factor in the services which they perform for graduates and employers alike.

Discriminating employers have long recognized the value of the college-grade courses offered by the three schools. This recognition is evidenced by the leadership which many of the schools' graduates have achieved in the field of Business.

MEN AND WOMEN WANTED

It has seemed at times that America's working forces would be inadequate to our needs . . . that we could get through only by the most stringent and intelligent utilization of available man and woman "power." At such times it is clearly imperative to protect men and women in industry . . . to keep them on the job and to lose not one day, one hour, one minute to industrial accident. When peace comes, however, the protection of industrial workers is equally imperative . . . to keep production costs down, to insure the worker's continued earning ability and his physical well-being.

Since 1910 proper protection of industrial workers has been the business of the Industrial Gloves Company, makers of a complete line of industrial safeguards. There can be no substitute for such experience, no better guarantee of satisfactory service.

is the watchword of America today—coordination of men and machines to perform the biggest job a nation ever attempted.

It is with the utmost modesty that we mention our name following the above thought but, for 33 years, our organization has coordinated the efforts of skilled workmen with modern machines to achieve a quality product of which we are proud.
